Contributions. Contributions are welcome from all countries. They should be written in English or French and should be submitted as an electronic version of the manuscript, including notes and references. Manuscripts are refereed in a rigorous scientific approach. Major advances in macroeconomics without immediate policy applications are also accepted, if they show potential for application in the future. Occasionally book reviews, announcements, conference proceedings, and interviews are also published. Special issues appear in the journal’s Supplements Series, having its own Special Issues Editor. An electronic version of the journal will be published simultaneously with the paper version enabling immediate access to the background information.

Home Page. The journal has a home page on the web which is a source of further information about the journal. The location of the home page is http://www.journals.cambridge.org/MACROAD. Additional information about the journal is available at http://www.journals.cambridge.org.

Manuscript Submissions. The submission procedure for this journal has been converted to electronic uploading of papers to the journal’s server. In submit, follow the instructions provided at http://www.journals.cambridge.org/submit. Authors who are new to the journal’s submission system should provide the article, author names (in 12-point type) of up to 40 characters (including spaces) and a full abstract will appear at the head of the article. Where more than a simple footnote is used, the corresponding author will receive page proofs for final proofreading. These should be checked and returned within five days of receipt.

Authors are encouraged to use the following order for parenthetical citations. [1]...[9]. Tables, figures, and other material published in the journal should be cited as a source of personal communication has approved such citation; written authorization may be required at the Editor’s discretion. Authors are responsible for obtaining written permission to publish material for which they do not own the copyright. A Copyright Transfer Agreement, with certain specified rights reserved by the author, must be signed and returned to the Editor by a senior author of accepted manuscripts, prior to publication. This is necessary to enable the publisher to ensure the widest distribution of the author’s work and the protection of both the author and the publisher under copyright law.
