ARCHAEOPRESS ARCHAEOLGY

Since early 2014 Archaeopress has been developing a new and ongoing range of print and e-book publications under the imprint Archaeopress Archaeology. Archaeopress is devoted to publishing serious academic work on all aspects of world archaeology. Visit our website at www.archaeopress.com to see our latest titles. Submit your proposal to Dr David Davison and Dr Rajka Makjanic at archaeo@archaeopress.com.

NEW PUBLICATIONS FOR SUMMER 2015

The volume presents the results of the Italian excavations and surveys carried out in Transjordan between 1937 and 1938.

The Priory Church of St Mary in Abergavenny has been a focus of worship since the late 13th century. This book traces the development, history and conservation of the most impressive building, dealing with its architectural, historical and conservation aspects.

This comprehensive monograph is a pioneering discussion of the Neolithic and Bronze Age sites on the Isle of Arran. It is a must-read for all archaeologists interested in these periods.
