Strategies of Information Adaptation in Society

ORRIN E. KLAPP

In this original application of information theory to social analysis, Orrin Klapp examines how and why societies are producing more stress than they can handle. He argues that the reduction of 'social noise', the chaos from which we try to construct meaning, is a major goal of individuals and groups alike.

Families in Former Times

Kinship, Household and Sexuality

JEAN-LOUIS FLANDRIN

Translated by RICHARD SOUTHERN

'This is an interesting and important book, translated with care and skill and carrying a large instalment of new and valuable information . . . Flandrin is splendid on the facts and attitudes about sexuality in l'âge classique in France, and very informative on English matters of the same kind.'

Understanding Events

Affect and the Construction of Social Action

DAVID R. HEISE

The theory proposed by Professor Heise is that common social actions, such as the responses of a patient towards a doctor or a mother towards a child, have an underlying basis in the psychology of emotion. People act to maintain established feelings, and when those feelings are strained they construct new social events to confirm their established sentiments.

JOURNAL OF POLITICAL AND MILITARY SOCIOLOGY ANNOUNCEMENT

Beginning with the Fall issue of 1977 the JPMS initiated a new policy of having guest editors in the fields of political and military sociology. The purpose of this policy is to broaden the scope of the journal and provide an opportunity for outstanding scholars with varying perspectives and orientations to bring to bear their scholarship and expertise in the selection process.

Thus far, the JPMS has been fortunate to have had some of the most dynamic and creative scholars in the areas of political and military sociology. Dr. Joseph Lopreato, Dr. John Walton, and Dr. Alejandro Portes have been the guest editors for the political sociology section. The JPMS is proud and indeed honored to announce that during 1980 one of the most world renown political sociologists, Professor Seymour M. Lipset, will be the guest editor for the Fall 1980 and Spring 1981 issues of the political sociology section of the JPMS.

Previous guest editors for the sociology of the military have been Dr. John Lovell and Dr. Ritchie Lowry. One of the outstanding sociologists of the military, Professor Kurt Lang will be the guest editor for the Fall 1980 and Spring 1981 issues.

For the year 1980 manuscripts should be forwarded to our guest editors at the addresses given below:
