This issue of the African Studies Review was edited by the Center for African Studies, University of Florida. All editorial correspondence regarding future issues should be sent to: Carol B. Thompson, Dept. of Political Science, University of Southern California, VKC 327, Los Angeles, CA 90089-0044.

All manuscripts should be submitted in triplicate. Manuscripts should be typed double-spaced (notes, excerpts, and references should also be double-spaced) and should be clear and dark. Please do not use erasable or onionskin paper. Maps, tables, charts, graphs, and other illustrations must be camera-ready. Manuscripts should conform to the recommendations of the latest edition of A Manual of Style (University of Chicago Press). Footnotes and references should appear at the end of the manuscript. Manuscripts will be submitted without the name of the author to outside readers; please include a removable cover page giving title, authorship, affiliation, and address; the article itself should carry only the title. The Review will only consider manuscripts that have not been published elsewhere and are not being considered by other journals.

NOTICE TO MEMBERS: The United States Postal System does not forward periodicals. We must receive written notification from you at least five weeks in advance of any change of mailing address. Failure to notify us of your correct mailing address will result in suspension of your membership until we receive such notification. We can make address changes only when current dues are paid. Domestic claims for non-receipt of issues must be made to the Association's office within six months of the month of publication (overseas claims, one year). Copies of the Review damaged in the mail will be replaced without charge.

The African Studies Review is published three times a year (April, September, and December) by the African Studies Association, Credit Union Building, Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia 30322, U.S.A. Articles in the Review represent neither the views of the African Studies Association nor those of its officers; responsibility for opinions expressed and for the accuracy of facts published rests solely with the individual authors. The publishers of the African Studies Review assume that contributors to the journal are literate in the English language, coherent in thought, and conversant with the principles of scholarship. The publisher has not copyedited this material; responsibility for copyediting is entirely the author's.

CONTENTS

The Joint Committee on African Studies of the American Council of Learned Societies and the Social Science Research Council commissioned the paper contained in this issue for presentation at the Twenty-ninth Annual Meeting of the African Studies Association, November 1987, Madison, Wisconsin. The paper is part of a continuing series of papers assessing the current state of social science and humanistic research on Africa. The African Studies Review welcomes the opportunity to publish these state-of-the-art papers for the sixth consecutive year.

CONTRIBUTORS

MARY JO ARNOLDI is a member of the Department of Anthropology at the Smithsonian Institution. She has done extensive research on theatre and the arts in Mali with an article forthcoming in Drama Review, "Playing the Puppets: Innovation and Rivalry in Bamana Drama in Mali."

KARIN BARBER is a lecturer in the Centre of West African Studies, University of Birmingham. She has taught and researched for many years in Nigeria, where she did extensive field work on Yoruba oral literature and popular theatre. Her publications include articles on both of these topics, and a book on Yoruba praise poetry (oriki) is in preparation.

FREDERICK COOPER is a professor of history at Michigan State. His publications include Plantation Slavery on the East Coast of Africa (New Haven: 1977), From Slaves to Squatters: Plantation Labor and Agriculture in Zanzibar and Coastal Kenya (New Haven: 1980), and an edited volume, Struggle for the City: Migrant Labor, Capital, and the State in Urban Africa (Sage: 1983).

DONALD COSENTINO is former Executive Secretary of the African Studies Association and presently lectures in the Folklore and Mythology Program and the English Department at UCLA. He is the author of Defiant Maids and Stubborn Farmers (Cambridge: 1982).

BENNETTA JULES-ROSETTE is currently professor of sociology at the University of California, San Diego, and Visiting Professor of Anthropology at the University of California, Berkeley. Her research interests include new religions in Africa, tourist and popular arts, and the impact of new technologies on social and cultural change. Major publications include African Apostles (Cornell: 1975), A Paradigm for Looking (Ablex: 1977), The New Religions of Africa (Ablex: 1979), Symbols of Change (Ablex: 1981), and The Messages of Tourist Art (Plenum: 1984).
