

Law & Society Review Condensed Style Sheet

Type manuscripts double-spaced on one side of the paper only. While manuscripts need not conform to this style sheet at the time of submission, all manuscripts must include an abstract, footnotes, and a list of references, and all accepted manuscripts must be revised by the authors to conform to the Review's style. The rules listed below supplement the manuscript information on the inside front cover of the Review. Authors are urged to consult Review issues in volume 26 or later for further illustrations. A detailed style sheet is available from the Editorial Office.

1. Abstracts. All manuscripts should include an abstract of not more than 100 words. No abstracts are required for review essays or comments.
2. Footnotes. Footnotes should be numbered sequentially (except for the author's footnote) and printed on pages immediately following the text (not at the foot of the page). They should contain only substantive comments and additional references not immediately relevant to the text.
3. Tables and Figures. Tables should approximate the appearance of printed tables. Figures should be camera ready; provide originals, not xerographic copies. Tables and/or figures should be placed at the end of the text, after footnotes, appendixes, and references. Their location within the text should be indicated as follows:

Table 1 about here

4. Citations. All notes that consist merely of supporting citations should be placed in parentheses in the text. For example:

In a thoughtful essay, Hayden (1991) . . .

OR

Media stories often portray the civil jury as generous (Daniels & Martin 1986:236; Hans 1989: Huber 1988).

The same general rules apply to footnote text.

5. References. References are placed at the end of the manuscript following the footnotes. The list should contain only those sources actually cited in text or notes. Give authors' names as they appear in the original source. For more than one publication by the same author, list them in chronological order, with the older item first. For more than one publication in one year by the same author, use small (lower-case) letters to distinguish them (e.g., 1970a, 1970b).

BOOKS: Last Name, First Name (year) Title of Book. City: Publisher.

Example: Lerner, Melvin J. (1980) Belief in a Just World. New York: Plenum.

CHAPTER IN EDITED VOLUME:

Example: Glazer, Nathan (1979) "The Judiciary and Social Policy," in L. Theberge, ed., The Judiciary in a Democratic Society. Lexington, MA: Lexington Books.

ARTICLES: Last Name, First Name (Year) "Title of Article," volume number Journal initial page of article. (Give month or issue number if each issue is separately paginated.)

Examples: Padgett, John F. (1990) "Plea Bargaining in Prohibition," 24 Law & Society Rev. 413.

Brill, Steven, & James Lyons ((1986) "The Not-So-Simple Crisis," American Lawyer 12 (May).

UNPUBLISHED PAPERS:

Example: Lofquist, William S. (1991) "The Development of Organizational Probation." Presented at American Society of Criminology annual meeting, San Francisco.

All cases cited in text are listed under "Cases Cited" following the References. All statutes cited are listed under "Statutes Cited." For style for cases and statutes, see A Uniform System of Citation.

The Color-Blind Constitution

Andrew Kull

In the contemporary debate over the politics and constitutional law of race, the vital theme of antidiscrimination has been largely suppressed. Thus a strong line of argument laying down one theoretical basis for constitutional protection of civil rights has been lost. Andrew Kull provides us with the previously unwritten history of the color-blind idea. From the arguments of Wendell Phillips and the Garrisonian abolitionists, through the framing of the Fourteenth Amendment and Justice Harlan's famous dissent in Plessy, civil rights advocates have consistently attempted to locate the antidiscrimination principle in the Constitution.

Dividing the Child

Social and Legal Dilemmas of Custody

Eleanor E. Maccoby and

Robert H. Mnookin

The first book to examine the social and legal realities of how divorcing parents make arrangements for their children, Dividing the Child is based on a large study of families from a wide range of socioeconomic levels. Maccoby and Mnookin followed a group of more than one thousand families for three years after the parents filed for divorce. Their findings show how different divorce agreements are reached and how various custody arrangements fare as time passes and family circumstances change.

The Realm of Rights

Judith Jarvis Thomson

"Thomson offers a painstaking analysis of rights...[She] then works from...the right to bodily integrity...to establish the contours of rights to liberty, rights arising out of promises, and more general property rights...This is a wonderful, deep, and engaging book."

Sexual Science and the Law

Richard Green

The law has much to say about sexual behavior, but what it says is rarely influenced by the findings of social science research over recent decades. This book focuses for the first time on the dynamic interplay between sexual science and legal decision-making. Reflecting the author's wide experience as a respected sex researcher, expert witness, and lawyer, this book provides valuable insights into some of the most controversial social and sexual topics of our time and how the work of sexual science could bring about a transformation in jurisprudence.

On Reading the Constitution

Laurence H. Tribe and

Michael C. Dorf

"This book amounts to an energetic and often highly illuminating discussion of how constitutional interpretation inevitably involves substantive choices but is not simply a matter of making things up...[It] reminds us of the extent to which our understanding of constitutional interpretation remains in a primitive state [and] counts as an unusually articulate contribution to the large number of recent works attempting to justify, to preserve, and to extend the work of the Warren Court."
