Awakening China
Politics, Culture, and Class in the Nationalist Revolution

JOHN FITZGERALD

This innovative work is the first to approach the awakening of China as a historical problem in its own right, and to locate this problem within the broader history of the rise of modern China. It analyzes the link between the awakening of China as a historical narrative and the awakening of the Chinese people as a political technique for building a sovereign and independent state. In sum, it asks what we mean when we say that China "woke up" in this century.

Changing Stories in the Chinese World

MARK ELVIN

This is an imaginative evocation and analysis—through the medium of translations (the author's own) of once popular but now forgotten literature—of the variety of "stories" in terms of which the Chinese have interpreted their lives since the early years of the 19th century.

The Will to Orthodoxy
*A Critical Genealogy of Northern Chan
Buddhism*

BERNARD FAURE
Translated by Phyllis Brooks

Marking a complete break with previous scholarship in the field, this book rewrites the history of early Chan (Zen) Buddhism, focusing on the genealogy and doctrine of one of its dominant strains, the so-called Northern school that flourished at the turn of the eighth century.

Literati Identity and Its Fictional Representations in Late Imperial China

STEPHEN J. RODDY

Examining three works of vernacular fiction dating from 1750 to 1828, this book studies the intellectual and literary factors that in the mid-Qing dynasty contributed to the development of vernacular fiction of unprecedented scholarly and satirical sophistication.

Traces of Dreams
Landscape, Cultural Memory, and the Poetry of Bashō

HARUO SHIRANE

Bashō (1644-94) is perhaps the best known Japanese poet in both Japan and the West, and this book establishes the ground for badly needed critical discussion of this central figure by placing the works of Bashō and his disciples in the context of broader social change.

NEW TITLES IN ASIAN STUDIES

RECORDS OF WIND AND EARTH: A TRANSLATION OF FUDOKI, WITH INTRODUCTION AND COMMENTARIES

by Michiko Y. Aoki

In A.D. 713, the Japanese central government ordered all provincial governors to compile surveys of their respective regions, including products, animals, plants, land conditions, etymologies of place names, legends, and oral traditions. The five extant "old" fudoki translated in Records of Wind and Earth are all that remain of these early reports. Three of these fudoki (Harima, Bungo, and Hizen) are being made available here for the first time in English. This collection contains invaluable records for any English-speaking person wishing to understand the early history of Japan—its land, its people, and its earliest literature.

RIVER OF SORROW: ENVIRONMENT AND SOCIAL CONTROL IN RIPARIAN NORTH INDIA, 1770-1994

by Christopher V. Hill

In this analysis of colonial attempts to control and manage the agrarian region surrounding the Kosi River, Hill argues that colonial ecological, political, and social policies were inextricably intertwined. The colonial administrators set about "improving" India's physical environment, just as they "improved" its social and political climate. In so doing, they were ill-prepared to understand, let alone administer, a river such as the Kosi—which traced a violent and erratic course out of the Himalayas, "carrying thousands of tons of silty sand and destroying everything in its path." The ecological paternalism imposed by the colonial governors introduced social and revenue policies that were to have a profound effect on the peasantry that continues to this day.

JAPANESE SUCCESS? BRITISH FAILURE?

Comparisons in Business Performance since 1945

Edited by ETSUO ABÉ and TERRY GOURVISH

This comparative study sheds new light on the Japanese postwar economic miracle. Contributors consider key variables: the government-industry relationship, management structures, education and training, and finance. In fully exploring these essential ingredients of international competitiveness and corporate performance, this book questions the reigning simplistic notions of Japanese "success" and British "failure".

Environmental Politics in Japan

Networks of Power and Protest

Jeffrey Broadbent

"Jeff Broadbent describes one of the most poignant conflicts in Japan, the battle between environmental preservation and economic development, in the case of Oita Prefecture. Fluent in Japanese, extremely well informed about Japanese politics and history, committed to environmental protection, Broadbent presents a nuanced and thoroughly researched account of a highly dramatic political struggle."

Imperial Power and Popular Politics

Class, Resistance and the State in India, c. 1850-1950

Rajnarayan Chandavarkar

Raj Chandavarkar offers a powerful revisionist analysis of the relationship between class and politics in India between the Mutiny and Independence. He rejects the "Orientalist" view of Indian social and economic development as somehow exceptional, and reasserts the critical role of the working classes in shaping the pattern of Indian capitalist development. This work represents a major contribution not only to the history of the Indian working classes, but to the history of industrial capitalism and colonialism as a whole.

Advice and Consent

The Politics of Consultation in Japan

Frank J. Schwartz

The postwar era has witnessed a pluralizing trend in Japan, but small sets of narrowly-focused interest groups still dominate policymaking. Over 200 small consultative councils (shingikai), composed of business people, bureaucrats, scholars, journalists, union members, and others, deliberate on virtually every aspect of public policy. This book reviews their functions and operations, and presents three case studies of specific governmental decisions involving the use of shingikai in the late 1980s.

Nirvana and Other Buddhist Felicities

Steven Collins

This book presents a new answer to the question: what is nirvana? Part One distinguishes between systematic and narrative thought in the Pali texts of Theravada Buddhism, looking at the place of nirvana in both. Part Two explores other Buddhist utopias and relates Buddhist utopianism to studies of European and American utopian writing. Steven Collins discusses these issues in relation to textuality, world history, and ideology in premodern civilizations.

Tigers, Rice, Silk, and Silt Environment and Economy in Late Imperial South China

Robert B. Marks

Challenging the conventional wisdom of Western environmental historians, this book examines the correlations between economic and environmental changes in the southern imperial Chinese provinces of Guangdong and Guangxi (a region historically known as Lingnan, "South of the Mountains") from 1400 to 1850. Marks discusses the impact of population growth on land use patterns, the agro-ecology, and deforestation; the commercialization of agriculture and its implications; the impact of climatic change on agriculture; and the ways in which the human population responded to environmental challenges.

Outside the Fold

Conversion, Modernity, and Belief

Gauri Viswanathan

Outside the Fold is a radical reexamination of religious conversion. Gauri Viswanathan skillfully argues that conversion is an interpretive act that belongs in the realm of cultural criticism. To that end, this work examines key moments in colonial and postcolonial history to show how conversion questions the limitations of secular ideologies.

Painting and Private Life in Eleventh-Century China

Mountain Villa by Li Gonglin

Robert E. Harrist, Jr.

In the eleventh century, the focus of Chinese painting shifted dramatically as a group of scholar-artists began to make paintings that reflected the experiences of their own lives. Robert Harrist argues here that no work illuminates this development more vividly than Mountain Villa, a handscroll by the renowned artist Li Gonglin (ca. 1041–1106). Here Harrist offers important insights into Chinese art, literature, and history.

Indigenous Peoples of Asia

Edited by R.H.Barnes,
Andrew Gray, and
Benedict Kingsbury

NEWLY REPRINTED!

This unique collection offers an introduction and eighteen separate articles designed to promote an understanding of the Asian indigenous peoples movement. The authors include sociologists, anthropologists, international legal scholars, and journalists, all addressing common themes.

"This book will constitute a major advance in our general understanding of the character of these Asian 'indigenous' movements and will be of value to scholars working in many cognate disciplines."

Professor Peter Carey, Trinity College, Oxford University.

"This volume presents timely information on a pressing issue. . . . The bibliographies alone will be worth the book for many specialists and for students with a beginning interest in this very real human problem."

Professor Robert McKinley, Anthropology Department, Michigan State University.

THE ORIGINAL ANALECTS

Sayings of Confucius and His Successors

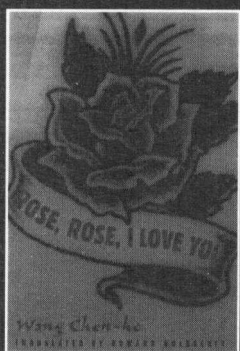

E. BRUCE BROOKS AND A. TAEKO BROOKS

"The Original Analects shows the text evolving over 230 years following the Master's death. It identifies and dates each layer of accretion, bringing the text to life, and throwing light on shifts and shades of thought in Warring States China, generation by generation. It represents an exciting new mode of investigation that will require most scholarship on ancient Chinese philosophy to be redone."

ROSE, ROSE, I LOVE YOU

WANG CHEN-HO

TRANSLATED BY HOWARD GOLDBLATT

In this fresh translation of a ribald satire, a small Taiwanese village loses all sense of proportion in anticipation of fleecing a shipload of lusty and lonely American soldiers. Rose, Rose, I Love You will appeal not only to readers of fiction but to those interested in Taiwanese identity in the shadow of greater China and the effects of Westernization on Asian society.

THE IMPLIED SPIDER

Politics and Theology in Myth

WENDY DONIGER

Defending the comparative study of myth against the charge that it ignores difference in favor of sameness, Wendy Doniger draws on myths, poetry, and sacred writings—from the Upanishads to Kierkegaard—to argue that we may sidestep universalist agendas in favor of cross-cultural patterns.

THE GENESIS OF CHINESE COMMUNIST FOREIGN POLICY

MICHAEL H. HUNT

"In a beautifully written and tightly structured work, [Hunt] shows how issues such as Taiwan are not peripheral but lie at the heart of the People's Republic of China's view of the outside world. . . . All in all, this is an excellent book, which deserves a wide readership." —Asian Affairs

Maid to Order in Hong Kong

Stories of Filipina Workers

NICOLE CONSTABLE

As middle-class Chinese women have entered the Hong Kong work force over the past two decades, the demand for foreign domestic workers has soared. The vast majority of these workers are women from the Philippines. Interweaving analysis with the individual stories, Nicole Constable shows how power is expressed in the day-to-day lives of Filipina domestic workers. "People interested in Hong Kong have discussed the 'Filipina maid issue' and waited for someone to do a serious study. This book is such a study."—Rubie Watson, Harvard University. 10 illus. $39.95 cloth, $16.95 paper

China's Motor

A Thousand Years of Petty Capitalism

HILL GATES

NEW IN PAPER! With a perspective that encompasses a thousand years of Chinese history, China's Motor provides a view of the social, economic, and political principles that have prompted people in widely varying circumstances to act, believe, and behave in ways that are labeled as Chinese. "Best known for her compelling portrayal of contemporary working-class Taiwanese, [Gates] considerably broadens and deepens her analysis of China's socioeconomy in this work."—Choice. $16.95

Disparaged Success

Labor Politics in Postwar Japan

IKUO KUME

Since at least the early 1980s, the power of organized labor has weakened in most advanced industrial countries. This decline has coincided with the decentralization of labor-management relations. As a result, most observers assume that decentralized labor is destined to lose power in a capitalist economy, and that enterprise unions will be docile and powerless. Ikuo Kume documents the one notable exception: the Japanese trade union confederation has steadily grown in importance, expanding its scope beyond individual companies to national policy making. CORNELL STUDIES IN POLITICAL ECONOMY. 24 tables, 24 graphs. $42.50 cloth, $16.95 paper

The Dark Side of Paradise

Political Violence in Bali

GEOFFREY ROBINSON

NEW IN PAPER! "The Dark Side of Paradise is an effective attempt to put the politics back into Bali's twentieth-century history. With a sure mastery of both Indonesian and Dutch sources, Robinson analyzes the class tensions between aristocrats and commoners during the late colonial period."—Times Literary Supplement. ASIA EAST BY SOUTH. $17.95

Japan's Postwar History

GARY D. ALLINSON

"A concise and well-conceived study of Japanese history."—Laura Hein, Northwestern University Japan's Postwar History presents the first integrated analysis of the social, economic, and political changes that Japan has experienced since 1945. Drawing on more than three decades of firsthand experience with the country, Gary D. Allinson depicts a dynamic, often turbulent history and illuminates its impact on individuals, families, and communities. 21 photos, 1 map $39.95 cloth, $14.95 paper

China Transformed

Historical Change and the Limits of European Experience

R. BIN WONG

The assumption still made in much social science research that Europe provides a universal model of development is fundamentally mistaken, according to R. Bin Wong. The solution is not, however, simply to reject Eurocentric norms but to build complementary perspectives, such as a Sinocentric one, to evaluate current understandings of European developments. "This bold, intellectually ambitious, and wholly original book challenges the way in which Western social science understands China."—Timothy Brook, Stanford University. $39.95

WHOSE INTERESTS ARE SUPREME?

ORGANIZATIONAL POLITICS IN THE CIVIL COURTS OF INDIA

by ROBERT S. MOOG

Posted on many courtroom walls in Varanasi is a simple sign, written in Hindi and English, which reads: "Litigant's Interest Is Supreme." In actuality, the author argues, the interests of litigants in India's civil courts are often largely forgotten—lost in the ongoing political conflict among judges, attorneys, and ministerial staff. Drawing upon organizational theory, this book offers a comprehensive analysis of the internal political struggles in India's district courts and their impact upon the entire judicial process. It focuses upon the reasons for the administrative problems (prolonged delays, huge backlog of pending cases, unenforceable decisions) that have become synonymous with litigation in India.

NEW FROM YALE

Three Thousand Years of Chinese Painting

Richard M. Barnhart, James Cahill, Wu Hung, Yang Xin, Nie Chongzheng, and Lang Shaojun

"The authors showcase the riches of Chinese pictorial heritage. . . The inclusion of more than 250 stunningly beautiful color plates and 75 black-and-white reproductions make this one of the most complete and best-illustrated works on the topic of Chinese pictorial art available to both general readers and scholars."

—Library Journal

"This is an extraordinary book and, given the West's limited acquaintance with the art it contains, a vitally necessary one."

—Wan-Go Weng, Wall Street Journal

Three Thousand Years of Chinese Painting is the inaugural volume in a new series, The Culture & Civilization of China, a joint publishing venture of Yale University Press and the American Council of Learned Societies with the China International Publishing Group in Beijing.

PUBLIC HISTORY AND NATIONAL NARRATIVE

Spring/summer 1997, volume 21, issue 1

Geoffrey M. White, guest editor

Among the most powerful practices mediating national identities and forming national publics are representations of the shared past. The articles in this issue ask how museums, memorials, and ceremonies define the situations within which national histories are understood, celebrated, revised, internalized, resisted, or forgotten. Contributors include Kathleen M. Adams, Takashi Fujitani, Eric Gable, Laurie Beth Kalb, Richard Kurin, Judy Ledgerwood, Pauline Turner Strong, and Geoffrey M. White.

Public History and National Narrative (MA 21:1) may be purchased by AAA members for $9 a copy ($12 for nonmembers). Ask about discounts for 10 or more copies. VISA and MasterCard accepted for orders of $10 or more. Virginia residents add 4.5% sales tax.

VIRAMMA: LIFE OF AN UNTOUCHABLE

VIRAMMA,
JOSIANE RACINE and JEAN-LUC RACINE
Translated by Will Hobson

“We are Pariahs. We live apart from the other castes; we eat beef; we play drums at funerals and weddings because only we can touch the cow hide; we work the land. . . . Every day people from the political parties come to the village and tell us to demand higher wages, to fight the caste system. And they mean well. But how would we survive?”

—Viramma

Viramma is an agricultural worker and midwife in a village in south-east India. Her story, told over ten years to Josiane and Jean-Luc Racine, is intensely personal and moving, informed by a sense of profound social change in contemporary India.
