CONTRIBUTORS

DONALD MITCHELL's latest volume on Mahler, Songs and Symphonies of Life and Death, was recently published by Faber & Faber.

ELLIOTT CARTER is writing his Fourth String Quartet. He will be featured on ITV's 'South Bank Show' on 28 March.

REGINA BUSCH has recently been appointed Editor of the Alban Berg Gesamtausgabe in Vienna (which began publication last year with Berg's early Piano Variations and a facsimile of sketches for a Symphony). Her article, the first part of which appeared in TEMPO 154, was originally published in German in 1984 in the first of two special Webern issues of the journal Musik-Konzepte (Munich: edition text+kritik) and has been translated for TEMPO by Michael Graubart.

DALE CRAIG is the Director of the Asian Music Section of the Queensland Conservatorium of Music in Australia. He has written widely on the problems of trans-cultural musical exchanges, and has composed works for ensembles blending Western instruments with traditional Chinese and other East-Asian ones.

NANCY USCHER recently returned to New York after living in Israel, where she was principal violist of the Jerusalem Symphony for several years. She currently divides her time between performing as a concert violist, writing articles, and finishing her book, A Critical Guide to Music Schools and Conservatoires Throughout the World.

CHRISTOPHER SHAW recently completed his cantata In Memoriam Jan Palach for soli, chorus, and orchestra.

CHRISTOPHER FOX (b. 1955) is a composer; in April, the Ensemble Köln will perform his Etwas Lebhaft in Cologne.

RICHARD LEIGH HARRIS (b. 1956) is a composer and jazz pianist.
