EREH - 2nd Highest Ranked Economic History Journal in latest JCR Reports

European Review of Economic History has established itself as a major outlet for high-quality research in economic history, which is accessible to readers from a variety of different backgrounds. The Review publishes articles on a wide range of topics in European, comparative and world economic history. Contributions shed new light on existing debates, raise new or previously neglected topics and provide fresh perspectives from comparative research. The Review includes full-length articles, shorter articles, notes and comments, debates, survey articles, and review articles. It also publishes notes and announcements from the European Historical Economics Society.

Journal of Global History
Published for London School of Economics and Political Science

Chief Editor
William Gervase Clarence-Smith, SOAS, London, UK
Editors
Kenneth Pomeranz, University of California, USA
Merry Wiesner-Hanks, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, USA

Journal of Global History addresses the main problems of global change over time, together with the diverse histories of globalization. It also examines counter-currents to globalization, including those that have structured other spatial units. The journal seeks to transcend the dichotomy between 'the West and the rest', straddle traditional regional boundaries, relate material to cultural and political history, and overcome thematic fragmentation in historiography. The journal also acts as a forum for interdisciplinary conversations across a wide variety of social and natural sciences.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Editorial policy: Financial History Review, published by Cambridge University Press on behalf of the European Association for Banking and Financial History e.V., is committed to high international scholarly standards and invites scholars doing research on banking, financial and monetary history to submit papers on any subject. The journal is published in English and contributions should be submitted in that language. Authors whose native language is other than English are encouraged to send a short abstract (in English) to a professional native speaker for a preliminary review prior to submission.

Submission: Manuscripts may be submitted through the new online submission facility available on the Review’s web page: http://journals.cambridge.org/FRB Authors are requested to upload:

1. A full-text document, in PDF (with Adobe Acrobat) format, or as a Word or RTF document. Submission of Word or RTF documents is not encouraged, but will be accepted if it is in a form other than English and is not being considered for publication elsewhere. Upon acceptance of a paper, the author will be asked to assign copyright (on certain conditions) to the European Association for Banking and Financial History e.V.

2. A brief abstract should be uploaded through the new online submission facility available on the Review’s web page: http://journals.cambridge.org/FRB

Authors are requested to upload:

- a detailed biography, including affiliation, and full contacts of the corresponding author (additional contact information may be included on a separate page)
- a blinded copy of the manuscript (the cover page of the document should include, the paper's title, short abstract (max. 200 words), a short list of keywords, and the name of the corresponding author and the country, institution, or university, and e-mail address of the corresponding author)

Preparation of manuscripts

1. Manuscripts should be typed double spaced throughout (8–9 mm) on A4 paper. Margin should be 2.5 cm on all sides, except for the right-hand edge of the paper

2. Pages should be numbered consecutively beginning with the first page, the paper number being placed, shaded, at the top right-hand corner of the page.

3. Footnotes should be typed, double spaced, numbered consecutively, and be grouped together at the end of the manuscript. Footnotes will appear in the text at the bottom of each printed page. Footnotes should briefly be concerned with matters of source citation. Substantive footnotes, involving commentary or argument, should be avoided, with matter being more properly contained within the body of the text. If an elaborate commentary on source is required, and cannot be incorporated within the body of the article, it should form an appendix to the article to be included in the total word count.

4. All text, figures, and tables should be submitted electronically and printed together as a single document. Paragraphs should be typed flush with the left margin and indented, and for ensuring that the appropriate acknowledgements are included in their manuscript.

5. Contributors should submit finally machine-readable text, in format word, to ensure that the final versions of their articles. Copies of text is then sent to the editor, who arranges the listing of sources.
