Books and Journals from Cambridge University Press

Cambridge have an established and ever expanding academic law list in public and private law subjects crossing books and journals aimed at a global readership.

Particular strengths lie in international law, human rights and transitional justice, transnational and comparative law, jurisprudence, and legal history.

We also publish a growing number of titles with an inter-disciplinary and socio-legal approach.

EDITORIAL POLICY
Leiden Journal of International Law is firmly established as one of Europe’s leading journals in the field. It provides a forum for two vital areas, namely international legal theory and international dispute settlement. It is unique in providing the most comprehensive coverage of the world’s most important international tribunals in The Hague and elsewhere (such as the ICJ, ICTY, ICC and others), as well as examining new trends in international legal thinking. LJIL is essential reading for academics and practitioners who need to stay abreast of recent developments.

Only articles which fall within the scope of the journal will be considered for publication.

SUBMISSIONS
Articles in good English to be considered for publication should be submitted online at http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/ljil. More information can be found at the editors’ website www.grotiuscentre.org (under LJIL).

Submission of a paper will be taken to imply that neither the article as a whole, nor any substantial part of it, has been published previously nor is it being considered for publication elsewhere. Upon acceptance of a paper, the author is asked to assign copyright to the Foundation of the Leiden Journal of International Law. Contributors are responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce any materials, including photographs and illustrations for which they do not hold copyright, and for ensuring that the appropriate acknowledgements are included in the manuscript. All contributions to LJIL are peer-reviewed.

MANUSCRIPT PREPARATION
The Editors recommend the following word counts for the journal’s sections: Articles up to 10,000 words; Hague International Tribunals and Current Legal Developments up to 8,000 words; Book Review Essays up to 5,000, and Book Reviews up to 2,500 words.

PROCEDURES
After receipt, the contribution will be sent for peer review. If the article is considered eligible for publication, any revisions deemed necessary will be sent to the author. The author will be given three weeks to make the necessary changes.

TEXT CONVENTIONS
Copy-editing can be a lengthy and complex business, so it is essential that contributors observe the LJIL’s text conventions closely. Texts which do not may be returned for amendment.

COPYRIGHT LICENSING AGENCY may also copy material, subject to the usual conditions. For all other use, permission should be sought from Cambridge or from the US branch of Cambridge University Press. Copy-editing can be a lengthy and complex business, so it is essential that contributors observe the LJIL’s text conventions closely. Texts which do not may be returned for amendment.

Proofs may be expected about three months before publication. Only essential typographical or factual errors may be changed at proof stage. Resist the temptation to revise or add to the text. The publisher reserves the right to charge authors for correction of non-typographical errors.

OFFPRINTS
Authors of articles, review essays and book reviews will receive a pdf file of their contribution and a complimentary issue upon publication. Offprints can be purchased if the form is completed and returned to the publisher on receipt of the first proofs.
