DIRECTIONS FOR ILWCH CONTRIBUTORS: Unsolicited proposals for articles and review essays are welcome, but must adhere to the following guidelines. Prospective authors should submit a 500-word abstract of the work they wish to submit to the journal. The editors are particularly interested in proposals with resonance beyond strictly national historiographies. Submissions should clearly explain the article’s research question and argument, note the types of sources the author intends to use, and demonstrate the ways that the article will reflect the journal’s commitment to publishing work across geographic regions and historical time periods. (Essays in themselves do not need to be “transnational.”) Editors will decide quickly whether they wish to review a full manuscript; authors will then be sent style and submission guidelines. Abstracts for proposed articles can be uploaded at http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/ilwch.

DIRECTIONS FOR SUBMISSIONS TO ILWCH:

1. Manuscripts, editorial correspondence, and books for review should be addressed to Managing Editor, International Labor and Working-Class History, Columbia University, 1180 Amsterdam Avenue, Box 660, New York, NY, 10027 USA or via email: journalmarketing@cambridge.org.

2. Eligibility: Submissions are eligible for publication if the principal author is a graduate student or a junior or mid-career faculty member. (Exception: Established scholars can be considered for special issue sections.) The author must also be a member of the American Historical Association. All contributions must be original. Contributions must not be under consideration elsewhere. Manuscripts should be submitted in electronic copy and should be double-spaced. Full contact information should be provided for each author, including mailing address, telephone number, and e-mail address. Authors are encouraged to submit PDFs of their final manuscripts. A brief abstract should accompany each contribution. Please indicate if the article requires copy editing. The text should be no longer than 10,000 words, including note references.

3. Submissions should clearly explain the article’s research question and argument, note the types of sources the author intends to use, and demonstrate the ways that the article will reflect the journal’s commitment to publishing work across geographic regions and historical time periods. (Essays in themselves do not need to be “transnational.”) Editors will decide quickly whether they wish to review a full manuscript; authors will then be sent style and submission guidelines. Abstracts for proposed articles can be uploaded at http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/ilwch.

4. Permission to Reproduce: Permission for reproduction must be obtained for all copyrighted materials. The Cambridge Core Terms of Use are available at http://www.cambridge.org/core/terms.

5. Style: Manuscripts should be written in standard modern American English, with academic orthography and punctuation. A style sheet is available at http://www.cambridge.org/core/journals/style-sheets.

6. Permissions: Authors are responsible for obtaining any permission required for material not previously published in English. When submitting a manuscript, authors must include a statement indicating that they have obtained appropriate permission to reproduce any copyrighted material (other than incidental quotations). Authors must also indicate that they have obtained any required permission for reproducing illustrations. Permission must be obtained for all other reproductions. The copyright holder is responsible for the payment of fees for reproduction.

7. Rights: By submitting a manuscript, authors grant the editors of International Labor and Working-Class History exclusive rights to publish the article, including the right to register the article for electronic distribution. Authors retain the right to reproduce and distribute their work in any medium at any time, subject to the Cambridge Core Terms of Use, available at http://www.cambridge.org/core/terms.

8. Authorship: All authors are responsible for the content of their submissions. Authors should ensure that they correctly acknowledge all sources and cite all references in the appropriate style. Authors should ensure that their work is original and that they have not submitted it elsewhere.

9. Conflicts of Interest: Authors should disclose any conflicts of interest that may affect the interpretation of their work. This may include financial, personal, or professional relationships with other individuals or organizations.

10. Revisions: Authors will receive two rounds of revisions. Authors should respond to these revisions within 60 days of receipt. If the manuscript is not revised to the satisfaction of the editors within this time, it will be considered for rejection.

11. Acknowledgments: Authors should acknowledge any assistance provided by others, including financial support, expert advice, or editorial assistance.

12. Page Charges: Page charges are not accepted for manuscripts submitted to the journal. However, authors may request to have page charges waived for the authors who are currently affiliated with a university or institution that is a subscriber to the journal.

13. Copyright: Copyright © 2018 International Labor and Working-Class History, Inc. All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, in any form or by any means, electronic, photocopying or otherwise, without permission in writing from Cambridge University Press. Photocopying information for users in the USA: The Item-Fee Code for this publication (ISSN 0147-5479/15 54.70.40.11 IP address: 54.70.40.11) indicates that copying for internal or personal use beyond that permitted by Sec. 107 or 108 of the US Copyright Law is authorized for duly registered with the Copyright Clearance Center (CCC) Transaction Reporting Service, provided that the appropriate remittance of $15.00 per article is paid directly to: CCC, 22 Rosewood Drive, Danvers, MA 01923. Specific written permission must be obtained for all other copying.

The Board of Consulting Editors may be found immediately following the contents. See the back inside cover of the journal for information concerning submissions to the journal.
