ARTICLES

The pope, a knight and a bishop on the edge of Christendom: the politics of exclusion in thirteenth-century Ireland by John Marshall 175

Colonialist intervention in a metropolitan revolution: reconsidering A remonstrance of divers remarkeable passages by Sean Kelsey 192

The impact of military demobilisation on rising Irish migration to London, c.1750–1850 by Adam Crymble 217

‘Information from which money can be made is what is required’: William Blackwoods and the Irish Ordnance Memoir Commission of 1843-4 by Ian Hill 238

The Weaver Street bombing in Belfast 1922: violence, politics and memory by Nadia Dobrianska 259

British Army intelligence in provincial Ireland, 1919–1921: organisation, outcomes and the 6th Division blacklist by Andy Bielenberg and John Borgonovo 278

Ethnographic collections in Northern Ireland and the Solomon Islands tomako (canoe) at the Ulster Museum, 1898–2023 by Briony Widdis 303

FEATURED REVIEW

Canny, Imagining Ireland’s pasts: early modern Ireland through the centuries by Liam Chambers 333