Recent years have witnessed a growing erosion of traditional boundaries between history and the social sciences. Women's history, history from below, quantitative history, mentalités and the longue durée, are now central concerns for historians. Sociologists have increasingly adopted historical approaches to the study of areas as diverse as crime, law and the state, education and sexuality, and reopened the large-scale comparative and historical questions which lay at the foundation of sociology in the 19th century. The Journal of Historical Sociology aims to further this rapprochement of history and the social sciences. With a distinguished editorial board of historians, sociologists and anthropologists drawn from several continents, the JHS is avowedly international and interdisciplinary. It provides a forum for the best in contemporary historical sociology, irrespective of its disciplinary provenance or theoretical standpoint.

Journal of Historical Sociology is published in March, June, September and December

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

1. All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to:
The Editor, Journal of American Studies, School of English and American Studies, University of Sussex, Falmer, Brighton, BN1
9QN, England.

2. Articles should generally contain about 5,000 words. Longer or shorter articles, or articles in two or more parts, may be accepted by arrangement with the Editors.

3. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, and is not being considered for publication elsewhere.

4. Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing (including footnotes), preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin.
Diagrams, maps and illustrations may be included.

5. Spelling may conform either to British or American usage, providing it is consistent throughout.

6. Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion.
They should be numbered consecutively, and may most conveniently be placed, in double spacing, at the end of the article.

7. For guidance on matters of style, contributors should refer either to The Chicago Manual of Style (13th edition, 1982) or to the Journal of American Studies Style Notes, copies of which may be obtained from the Editors.

8. Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.

9. Notes intended for the Editors or Printer should be on a separate sheet.

10. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within three days of receiving them.

11. Corrections should be kept to an absolute minimum. They should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorizes otherwise.

12. Contributors of articles and review essays receive 25 free offprints.
Extra copies may be ordered according to a scale of charges.

13. Contributors need not be members of the British Association for American Studies. Unsolicited typescripts can only be returned to overseas contributors who send International Reply Coupons (not postage stamps).

14. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
