Law and Society in England

Law and Society in England examines the reality of law in action in contemporary society, utilizing, where appropriate, the distinction between legal form (the 'law in the books') and legal reality (the 'law in action'). The bulk of the book is concerned with the ways in which various groups and agencies – the police, the courts, lawyers, and juries etc. – apply legal rules. While the main focus is on the criminal law, analogous processes in the realms of civil law are also examined.

JOHN LEACH and J K WING
Helping Destitute Men

It seems paradoxical that, in a so-called affluent society, there should be men and women sleeping in the open with no more than a cardboard box and some newspaper padding for protection. Yet in spite of the provisions of the Welfare State, thousands of people are in just this condition.

This book describes an investigation of the way in which a voluntary organization tried to help destitute men. The authors compare voluntary with statutory services, and put forward practical proposals about the kinds of local services needed by the destitute.

SOCIAL ADMINISTRATION ASSOCIATION

The Association exists for those whose work consists mainly of teaching or research in the fields of Social Administration and Social Policy. It was formed some years ago to enable staff from universities, polytechnics, technical and other colleges, independent and Government research organisations to meet and discuss matters of common interest.

The Association acts as a representative of its members and of Social Administration through contacts with the Social Science Research Council, the Council for National Academic Awards and the Business Education Council.

The Association has specialist groups which meet to discuss the teaching of social policy and public expenditure and social policy.

The Association holds an Annual Conference. The 1981 conference will be from 14th to 16th July in Leeds. The theme will be 'Theory and Social Policy'.
