RENAISSANCE QUARTERLY, published by The Renaissance Society of America, is the premier journal of interdisciplinary Renaissance studies. Each issue contains 4–5 articles on the latest developments in various fields as well as 25–30 book reviews of current publications to keep you abreast of the Renaissance scholarship in your field and related ones. The Society also publishes a newsletter, which informs members of upcoming conferences and provides a forum for scholarly debate. We also sponsor an Annual Meeting which roams the country, offering members a range of topics and papers as well as the opportunity to meet scholars in the many fields of Renaissance studies. Future meeting sites include New York City and Bloomington, Indiana. There are many benefits to membership; why not sign up today and become a part of a great organization!

HISTORY FROM CRIME

edited by Edward Muir and Guido Ruggiero

translated by Corrada Biazzo Curry,
Margaret A. Gallucci, and Mary M. Gallucci

From political corruption in Renaissance Florence to the illegal seventeenth-century practice of rebaptizing dead babies, a distinguished group of scholars explores the social and political history of Italy through the study of criminal records. Selections from Quaderni Storici

$14.95 paperback

THE CRIMINAL LAW SYSTEM OF MEDIEVAL AND RENAISSANCE FLORENCE

Laura Ikons Stern

In the first analysis of the criminal law system of Florence during a crucial period, Laura Ikons Stern argues that the vitality of Florentine legal institutions gives evidence of a centralized state bureaucracy strong enough to thwart the early development of a ruling oligarchy.

$49.50 hardcover

HAMLET'S PERFECTION

William Kerrigan

"Kerrigan is a consummate scholar. He shows the historical currents within which Hamlet was created and has lived until the present moment. There are flashes of brilliance throughout the book, and a great deal of original and provocative dialogue with other readings of the play."—Murray M. Schwartz, Claremont Graduate School

The Subtext of Form in the English Renaissance

Proportion Poetical

S. K. HENINGER, JR.

"[This] book is highly original in advancing new theories, analyzing specific art works as well as synthesizing the gamut of conventional and avant-garde wisdom. One has the sense of having finally understood what texts and visual arts have in common, even and especially across geographical boundaries (Italy and England)."

—Charles H. Carman, SUNY, Buffalo

Spalliera Paintings of Renaissance Tuscany

Fables of Poets for Patrician Homes

ANNE B. BARRIAULT

"This book is the first sustained exploration of the spalliera, an important but overlooked type [of art]. In a learned and judicious text, the author defines what the type was, discusses its function, explores its iconography, and traces the network of connections between the paintings and the social world from which they arise. This social dimension is one of the most important achievements of the text. Without doubt this book will make a real, and much welcomed, contribution to the history of Renaissance art." —Bruce Cole, Indiana University 232 pp. 14 color/143 b-&-w illus. $57.50

Filippo Brunelleschi

The Buildings

HOWARD SAALMAN

In this copiously illustrated reconsideration of Brunelleschi's buildings in a fresh historical context, Howard Saalman offers a definitive modern study of Brunelleschi's buildings, based on detailed archaeological investigation of the monuments and new exhaustive research in the Florentine archives.

560 pp. 377 illus. $175.00

Nicola Pisano's Arca di San Domenico and Its Legacy

ANITA FIDERER MOSKOWITZ

Moskowitz provides an analysis of the form and structure of the thirteenth-century tomb of St. Dominic and an exploration of its meaning to Pisano's contemporaries as well as its influence on the development of Italian sepulchral art.

The Imprint of Gender

Authorship and Publication in the English Renaissance

WENDY WALL

Wall considers how the idea of authorship was shaped by the complex social controversies generated by publication. In the process, she maps the intricate connections between authorship and the gendered rhetoric used to identify the book as an item for sale. $45.95 cloth, $17.95 paper

Misrepresentations

Shakespeare and the Materialists

GRAHAM BRADSHAW

"Bradshaw subjects some of the best new historicist and cultural materialist readings of Shakespeare to skeptical review, challenging the new movements on their strong side."—Scott McMillin, Cornell University $37.95 cloth, $15.95 paper

Quixotic Desire

Psychoanalytic Perspectives on Cervantes

EDITED BY RUTH ANTHONY
EL SAFFAR
AND DIANA
DE ARMAS WILSON

This venturesome book sheds new light not only on the uses of psychoanalysis for reading Cervantes, but also on the relationship between Freud's reading of Cervantes in the summer of 1883 and the very foundation of psychoanalytic paradigms. $36.95 cloth, $15.95 paper

A Moral Art

Grammar, Society, and Culture in Trecento Florence

PAUL F. GEHL

"A focused account of the textbook materials used in Florentine secondary education in the fourteenth century, Gehl's book offers readers a broad insight into the culture of the city."—Ronald G. Witt, Duke University. $38.95

The Birth of the Despot

Venice and the Sublime Porte

LUCETTE VALENSI

Translated by Arthur Denner. In an elegant and incisive account of the transformation of European attitudes toward the Ottoman empire during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, Valensi traces the genealogy of the concept of oriental despotism. $22.50

Position Available: Distinguished Professor of Italian Renaissance Studies

The Institute of Italian Heritage and Culture of St. John's University is actively seeking nominations and applications for a Distinguished Professorship in Italian Renaissance Studies.

St. John's University, founded in 1870 by the Congregation of the Mission, is the largest Catholic University in the United States with sizeable international student and faculty populations. The University is a doctoral-granting institution comprised of ten schools, colleges, and institutes and offers study abroad programs on both graduate and undergraduate levels.

The applicant should possess a distinguished record of scholarly or artistic achievement in the teaching and research of Italian Renaissance Studies. The applicant is expected to teach, carry on an active research agenda, and participate in the development of the educational and cultural goals of the Institute of Italian Heritage and Culture. Fluency in the Italian language is desired.

The Distinguished Professor will be a full-time faculty member of the Colleges of Liberal Arts and Sciences. The appointment is for two years with possibility of renewal. Salary is commensurate with the qualifications of the applicant and the status of Distinguished Professor.

Applicants should forward an original and six copies of their résumé to:

Dr. Paul T. Medici
Associate Academic Vice-President
St. John's University
8000 Utopia Pkwy.
Jamaica, New York 11439

St. John's University is an Equal Opportunity Employer.
