SPECIAL ISSUE
Re-evaluating the Celtic hypothesis
Edited by Markku Filppula and Juhani Klemola

155 Introduction by the guest editors

ARTICLES 163 What else happened to English? A brief for the Celtic hypothesis
J. H. McWhorter
193 Celtic influence on Old English: phonological and phonetic evidence
Peter Schrijver
213 An explanation for the early phonemicisation of a voice contrast in English fricatives
Stephen Laker
237 Celtic influence on Old English and West Germanic
Angelika Lutz
251 Standard Average European and the Celticity of English intensifiers and reflexives: some considerations and implications
Erich Poppe
267 The rise of it-clefting in English: areal-typological and contact-linguistic considerations
Markku Filppula
295 Traces of historical infinitive in English dialects and their Celtic connections
Juhani Klemola
309 Celtic influence in English? Yes and No
Theo Vennemann