The Commission, in carrying out its work, will be drawing upon both briefs from individuals and organizations, and research studies of particular issues and areas in health and health care. It is anticipated that the research program will be carried out in part by Commission staff, and in part through projects contracted out to the health and health care research community within and outside British Columbia.

The Commission would like to receive letters, to a maximum of three pages in length, from interested researchers, outlining potential projects relevant to the Commission’s terms of reference. Letters should include a brief description of the project, an outline of the proposed approach and sources of data or other information, relevant experience and qualifications of the proposed research team, and a rough estimate of the cost. Of particular interest will be proposals which arise from presently on-going research activities, established areas of expertise, or unique databases or other research resources. Since the Commission is to report by September 1, 1991, all projects must be completed by June 1, 1991.

The Commission’s terms of reference are very broad. They include the analysis of trends in and determinants of utilization and costs of health services in the province, and their relationship both to the needs of the province’s population, and to its economic capacity, present and future. This in turn requires consideration and evaluation of existing and alternative forms of organization of the delivery of and payment for health care services, of the types and amounts of personnel and capital facilities required now and in the future, and of the legislative and regulatory framework within which the development of personnel and facilities, and the delivery of services, takes place.

Further, the terms of reference recognize that health care is only one aspect of the health of any population, and require the Commission to consider the contribution to health of factors beyond the health care system -- making specific reference to the concept of ‘healthy public policy’ in the broadest sense.

Letters should be sent to the Director of Research, B.C. Royal Commission on Health, Ninth Floor, 1285 West Pender St., Vancouver, B.C. V6E 4B1.
