AIMS & SCOPE
Under what conditions does “development” end? Under what conditions does “aging” begin? Can these conditions themselves be modified by intervention at the psychological, social, or biological levels? To what extent are patterns of development and aging attributable to biological factors?

To psychological factors? How can the social and behavioral sciences contribute to the actualization of human potential throughout the entire life span? What are the implications of gerontological research for our understanding of the total development of human organism?

These are some of the broad questions with which The International Journal of Aging & Human Development is concerned. Emphasis is upon psychological and social studies of aging and the aged. However, this peer-refereed journal also publishes research that introduces observations from other fields that illuminate the “human” side of gerontology, or utilizes gerontological observations to illuminate problems in other fields.

Nurses working together make a difference

Every minute there are 11 new HIV infections worldwide. More than half occur in young people under the age of 24.

With more than a billion young people on earth between the ages of 15 and 24, the spread of HIV is a great concern to health care professionals.

As leaders in primary health care, nurses worldwide do make a difference by providing education and care to those most vulnerable.

The Canadian Journal on Aging is a refereed, quarterly publication of the Canadian Association on Gerontology. It publishes manuscripts on aging concerned with biology, health sciences, psychology, social sciences, and social policy and practice. The journal welcomes articles reporting original research, as well as conceptual and theoretical papers which significantly advance knowledge or understanding in gerontology. Although focused on Canadian research, manuscripts from authors outside Canada are welcome. Authors are asked to bear in mind the multidisciplinary nature of the readership when writing their manuscripts. In particular, care should be taken to draw out the implications of the analysis for readers in other fields and other disciplines.

Journal space is also available for research notes, brief reports and indexed data studies with theoretical and/or practical implications. The maximum length for these submissions is 10-12 manuscript pages including references, figures and tables. The section can be used to present important new studies, policy and practice approaches, findings from pilot and replication studies, and summaries of program evaluation studies. Authors of a brief report must indicate, when applicable, that a more detailed report will be provided upon request.

1. Submission and acceptance of manuscripts

Manuscripts may be submitted as electronic copy by e-mail or as hard copy by regular mail. All manuscripts should be addressed to the Editor-in-Chief:

Mark W. Rosenberg

Canadian Journal on Aging

Department of Geography

Queen’s University Kingston, Ontario, Canada, K7L 3N6

rosenber@post.queensu.ca

Submission of a paper to the CJA implies that it has not been published, nor is it under consideration for publication by another journal; and if accepted by the CJA it is not to be published elsewhere (except as a conference proceeding) without permission.

2. Manuscript preparation

a. Preparing the manuscript: It is recommended that PC-compatible software be used, such as Microsoft Word. Articles should be printed double spaced. Articles should generally contain between 3,000 and 10,000 words. Manuscripts must include a title page with the title of the article typed, as well as any subheadings and tables as well as headings for the body of the text.

b. Title page: Two of the copies must include a title page containing name of author, highest degree awarded, name and address of institutional affiliation, e-mail, FAX and telephone numbers.

c. Author anonymity: Those of the submitted copies must include a blinded title page, with title only.

d. Abstract: Each author is required to submit, on a separate sheet, an abstract of not more than 150 words. A French translation of the abstract is necessary. The author may provide this or accept the expense of the translation of the abstract (35 $).

e. Acknowledgements: These should be added on a separate page and will not be incorporated in a preliminary note on the first printed page of the article.

f. Notes: All notes should be entered as endnotes and should appear immediately before the References. Endnotes are not acceptable.

g. References: The article submitted should be written in either the American Psychological Association (1994) style or the Vancouver style of referencing. More information regarding this may be obtained by writing to the Editorial office.

h. Tables: Tables should be typed on separate sheets. Electronic files should be in Word table format.

i. Figures: Camera-ready figures should be submitted with the final versions of the paper in the following cases: 40 pixels/72 ppi at wide max. 56 pixels/72 ppi at narrow max. If possible, please submit the original Excel file and the chart that has been generated.

3. Diskettes

Once a paper is accepted the author must supply a copy of the paper on diskette in Word format.

4. Author’s alterations

Alterations to page proofs which are not required to correct material will be charged to the author.

5. Copyright
