J. E. Spence, The Royal Institute of International Affairs, London

Published for the Royal Institute of International Affairs

International Affairs, founded in 1922, is the quarterly journal of the Royal Institute of International Affairs and Britain's leading policy journal of contemporary world affairs. It combines broad-based coverage of global policy questions with up-to-date and penetrating analysis of the key processes shaping world developments. Articles by practicing policy-makers and academic specialists keep both general and specialist readers in touch with the leading edge of European debates, as well as with thinking elsewhere on current international issues. International Affairs brings the issues of today to the fore in a way that is readable and stimulating. The journal also carries an unrivalled book review section, reviewing more than 100 new books on world affairs in every issue, thus providing an up-to-date survey of new work.

New from Cambridge

Crime, Disorder, and the Risorgimento

The Politics of Policing in Bologna
Steven C. Hughes

This book provides a meticulous examination of the ideology, structure, and functions of the papal police as they operated in the city and province of Bologna in the period before Italian unity, and in doing so offers an important new interpretation of the Risorgimento.
44450-0 Hardback $54.95

Between the Fields and the City

Women, Work, and Family in Russia, 1861–1914

Barbara Alpern Engel

By examining the significance and consequences of Russian peasant women's migration from the village to the factory and city from 1861 to 1914, this book charts the personal dimensions of economic and social change.
44236-2 Hardback $59.95

Classes, Estates and Order in Early-Modern Brittany

James B. Collins

This book uses the Breton experience to address two fundamental historiographical issues: the meaning of absolutism and the nature of early-modern French society.
44072-6 Hardback $59.95

Darwinism, War and History

The Debate over the Biology of War from the Origin of Species to the First World War

Paul Crook

By exploring the gamut of Darwinian readings of history and war, mainly in the English-speaking world prior to 1919, this study throws new light upon militarism, peace movements, the origins of World War I and British social thought.

44465-9 Hardback $64.95
46645-8 Paperback $27.95

The Bishops' Wars

Charles I's Campaigns Against Scotland, 1638–1640

Mark Charles Fissel

King Charles I's two attempts to mobilize England in an effort to enforce religious uniformity in Scotland were met with failure. This book—an essay in military history in a political context—analyzes the institutions of war, its financing, the recruitment of forces, and above all the reasons for Charles I's failures.

Shaftesbury and the Culture of Politeness

Moral Discourse and Cultural Politics in Early Eighteenth-Century England

Lawrence E. Klein

The third earl of Shaftesbury was a pivotal figure in eighteenth-century thought and culture. Professor Klein's new study is the first to examine the extensive Shaftesbury manuscripts and offer an interpretation that relates his ideas about philosophy, morals, religion and the arts to his social and political goals.

Law, Sexuality, and Society

The Enforcement of Morals in Classical Athens

David Cohen

"David Cohen's Law, Sexuality, and Society is an ambitious and broad-ranging attempt to disentangle the relation of classical Athenian law and society in the particularly fraught areas of adultery, homosexuality, and (to a lesser extent) religion."

Comparative Studies in Society and History is a forum for presentation and discussion of new research into problems of change and stability that recur in human societies through time or in the contemporary world. It sets up a working alliance between specialists in all branches of the social sciences and humanities. Debate and review articles bring the general reader in touch with current findings and issues.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Contributions may be descriptive, analytical, or theoretical. Any article not in itself comparative may be accepted if it lends itself to comment that will place it in comparative perspective. Correspondence with the editors prior to the submission of articles will help to enable them to obtain such comment or a companion study. Emphasis in comparative studies may be either on similarities or, if these are significant enough and call for some recasting of generalizations, on differences. All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to the Editors, Comparative Studies in Society and History, 102 Rackham Building, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48109-1070.

Two copies of each contribution, preferably accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope, should be submitted. Both text and footnotes should be clearly typed with double spacing and wide margins; footnotes should appear on separate pages at the end of the article. Illustrations may be included by arrangement with the editors.
