The editors invite submission of articles, research notes, and review articles bearing upon problems in international relations and comparative politics. Manuscripts and notes should be double-spaced and submitted through the Web-based submission system, Manuscript Central, at http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/wp. Research articles and review articles may be up to 12,500 words in length, including notes and references; research notes may be up to 10,000 words, including notes and references. Tables, figures, and appendixes need not be included in the word count. Word count should be indicated. Manuscripts that exceed the limit will not be considered. Guidelines for review articles, guidelines for special issues, tables of contents, and other information can be found on the World Politics home page, at http://www.princeton.edu/piirs/worldpolitics-journal.

Authors can expect to receive decisions on their submissions within four months. Procedures for reviewing manuscripts are based on the anonymity of the author and the confidentiality of readers’ and editors’ reports; author anonymity is preserved, as well, during the editorial decision-making process. Self-references should therefore be removed. Referees are drawn from Princeton and other institutions; published articles have usually been reviewed by at least one editor and two readers from other institutions. Referees for the previous calendar year are acknowledged annually in issue 4 of the journal. In the case of an article deemed to be inappropriate for World Politics, the editors strive to notify the author within a month of submission that the article has been withdrawn from consideration.

World Politics does not accept manuscripts that have already been published, are scheduled for publication elsewhere, or have been simultaneously submitted to another journal; this applies to both print and online formats. Statements of fact and opinion appearing in the journal are made on the responsibility of the authors alone and do not imply the endorsement of the editors or publisher. The journal does not publish communications to the editor or rejoinders to specific articles. Scholars who believe they have been challenged are encouraged to submit an article that will advance the scholarly debate.

Why Adjudicate?
Enforcing Trade Rules in the WTO
Christina L. Davis

"Many scholars and professionals are focused on the question of the effectiveness of the WTO as a mechanism for resolution of trade disputes. This book offers particular insight into this question and also considers the implications for new entrants in the international trading system such as China."
—Merit E. Janow, Columbia University

Of Empires and Citizens
Pro-American Democracy or No Democracy at All?
Amaney A. Jamal

"This original book adds to the substantial research concerned with domestic factors and the persistence of authoritarianism in the Arab world. It also opens a new line of inquiry by demonstrating the role of international factors in relationships between the Arab governments and the United States. An impressive and rich work."
—Mark Tessler, University of Michigan

World Politics Visiting Fellowship for 2013–14

The Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS) invites applications for a World Politics visiting scholar for the 2013–14 academic year. The position is sponsored by the Institute’s scholarly journal World Politics and is intended to foster research and writing suitable for publication in the journal. Applicants should be engaged in cutting-edge empirical or theoretical work in the fields of comparative politics or international relations and preferably hold an ongoing position at a university or research institution. This position is ideally meant for a scholar on sabbatical leave from her/his home institution; depending on the successful candidate’s salary, the fellowship could provide up to one-half of the scholar’s academic year salary, subject to a cap that will be determined. Visiting scholars are expected to be in residence at PIIRS for the entire academic year.

To apply, please link to https://jobs.princeton.edu, position requisition number 1200409. Applications must include:

(1) a cover letter with an indication of (and justification for) the level of support requested;
(2) a brief statement of research plans;
(3) a current curriculum vitae;
(4) names and email addresses of two persons who can provide confidential letters of recommendation; and
(5) one writing sample (article- or chapter-length).

The deadline for applications is December 14, 2012.

For more information on PIIRS, see http://www.princeton.edu/piirs/. Further questions about this position may be directed to Rebecca Aguas at raguas@princeton.edu. Princeton University is an equal opportunity employer and complies with applicable EEO and affirmative action regulations.
