Editorial Policy

EuConst is a multidisciplinary journal that welcomes discussions on legal and constitutional issues in the European Union and its member states. Contributions are subject to double blind peer review by an international editorial board. EuConst publishes articles, case notes, book reviews, and special sections. EuConst aims to discuss EU law's developments as well as comparative public law of European states, political and constitutional theory and history. The journal is a platform for scholarly discussion of European constitutional law, international and European institutional law, administrative law, and comparative law.

EuConst is happy to host a special section of articles stemming from a conference or research project in one of the fields covered by the journal. Please see our journal homepage <cambridge.org/euconst> for any active call for proposals.

Special sections

Authors should ensure that their submissions conform to the house style. A style sheet is available on the journal website, <cambridge.org/euconst> under Information – Instructions for contributors. Accepted contributions will be edited, linguistically and substantively, subject to authors’ approval.

All submissions must be written in good English. Authors who are uncertain whether their English is of sufficiently high standard for publication should seek advice before submitting. Book reviews can be sent to our book review editors Nik de Boer and Vestert Borger at euconst-books@uva.nl.

Articles and case notes can be sent by email to euconst@uva.nl. Authors of article contributions are asked to state clearly, when submitting, that their contribution is not under consideration elsewhere. Upon request, the editors will consider whether relaxation of these limits is justified. Manuscripts should be sent in Microsoft Word format (and not, specifically, in PDF format) to enable easy text editing, anonymisation and comments. EuConst has an exclusive submission policy. Authors are required not to submit their contributions to EuConst until they have been rejected by other journals.

Manuscripts may be submitted in English, French, German, or Dutch. Contributions in other languages are subject to the discretion of the editors. Authors are expected to check their submissions for any reference to and discussion of legal aspects involved.

Authors should ensure that their contributions are not under consideration elsewhere. EuConst does not accept manuscripts that have been published in other journals. Authors are expected to check their contributions for any reference to and discussion of legal aspects involved.

Submissions are selected on the basis of their originality, their methodological and empirical quality, and their analytical soundness. Two specific conditions, to a) have a distinctly European relevance and b) include a reference to and discussion of legal aspects involved.
