CONTENTS

243 Markets and institutional swamps: tensions confronting entrepreneurs in developing countries
   Matthias Olthaar, Wilfred Dolfsma, Clemens Luz and Florian Noseleit

271 Diffusion of regulatory innovations: the case of corporate governance codes
   Carsten Gerner-Beuerle

305 The theory of capital as a theory of capitalism
   Eduard Braun

327 The right to be free: is media freedom good news for women's rights?
   Arusha Cooray, Nabamita Dutta and Suhasita Mallick

357 Ethnic diversity and conflict
   Michael Bleaney and Arcangelo Dimico

379 A social-leverage mechanism on the Silk Road: the private emergence of institutions in central Asia, from the 7th to the 9th century
   Yanlong Zhang and Wolfram Elsner

401 The location choice of US foreign direct investment: how do institutions matter?
   Kunal Sen and Chaitali Sinha

421 Economic freedom and human capital investment
   Horst Feldmann

447 The ontology of fractional reserve banking
   Michaël Bauwens

467 Political institutions and financial cooperative development
   Ameer Khafagy

ISSN 1744-1374
All manuscripts must be submitted online via the website: https://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/joie

Detailed instructions for submitting your manuscript can be found on the submission website by clicking on the ‘Submit a Manuscript’ link in the top right of the screen, and then clicking on the ‘Submit Manuscript’ icon on the following page.

The Editor will acknowledge receipt of the manuscript, provide it with a manuscript reference number and assign it to reviewers. The reference number of the manuscript should be quoted in all correspondence with JOIE Office and Publisher.

ARTICLE

There must be no indication of the personal identity or institution of any author of the article within the article itself, or in the ‘property’ of the electronic file. Normally, articles (including footnotes and references) must be no longer than 9,000 words. In special cases, such as an extended review or survey article, this limit may be extended to 12,000 words. A declaration of the total word count (including footnotes and references) must accompany it or be within the article.

Papers with some formal content will be considered if it is fully explained for a general readership, the mathematics is consigned as much as possible to appendices, the assumptions have sufficient generality to be plausible, and the paper enhances our understanding of past, present, or future socio-economic institutions. JOIE is not interested in the advance ment of formal or econometric techniques for their own sake.

The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title, an abstract of the article of up to 150 words; the Journal of Economic Literature classification codes for the article (consisting of a single letter followed by two numerals, see www.econlit.org for a list of codes) and, html class system.html; and up to six key words or short phrases.

Footnotes should be kept to a minimum and the Harvard referencing system should be used.

Submission of a paper will be held to imply that it contains original unpublished work and is not being submitted for publication elsewhere.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily assess all papers. A paper will be rejected at this first stage if it does not comply with the above guidelines, is evidently of insufficient academic quality or interest, or lies outside the scope of the journal. If a paper passes this preliminarily assessment, then it will be sent out to referees. The five Editors will make the final decision, taking account of the referee’s report.

If the article is accepted, the author will be asked to comply with the format and house style of JOIE, as exhibited in issues of the journal from June 2015.

AIMS

“Journals are the stuff of social and economic life. Many influential organizations, including the World Bank, have recognized the importance of institutions for economic development. The Nobel Prize has been awarded to Ronald Coase, Douglass North, Garth Mandel and Simon Kuznets for their pioneering work in institutional economics.”

“The Journal of Institutional Economics is devoted to the study of the nature, role and evolution of institutions in the economy, including firms, states, markets, money, households and other vital institutions and organizations.”

Institutions are the stuff of social and economic life. Many influential organizations, including the World Bank, have recognized the importance of institutions for economic development. The Nobel Prize has been awarded to Ronald Coase, Douglass North, Garth Mandel and Simon Kuznets for their pioneering work in institutional economics.”

“The Journal of Institutional Economics aims to provide all authors with an export value on their articles within 10 days of submission.

JOHN R. Searle, University of California, Berkeley

This journal issue has been printed on Sappi Revere Paper, which is produced from sustainably managed forests.

The reference number of the manuscript should be quoted in all correspondence with JOIE Office and Publisher.
CONTENTS

243–269 Markets and institutional swamps: tensions confronting entrepreneurs in developing countries
Matthias Olthaar, Wilfred Dolfsma, Clemens Lutz and Florian Noseleit

271–303 Diffusion of regulatory innovations: the case of corporate governance codes
Carsten Gerner-Beuerle

305–325 The theory of capital as a theory of capitalism
Eduard Braun

327–355 The right to be free: is media freedom good news for women’s rights?
Arusha Cooray, Nabamita Dutta and Sushanta Mallick

357–378 Ethnic diversity and conflict
Michael Bleaney and Arcangelo Dimico

379–400 A social-leverage mechanism on the Silk Road: the private emergence of institutions in central Asia, from the 7th to the 9th century
Yanlong Zhang and Wolfram Elsner

401–420 The location choice of US foreign direct investment: how do institutions matter?
Kunal Sen and Chaitali Sinha

421–445 Economic freedom and human capital investment
Horst Feldmann

447–466 The ontology of fractional reserve banking
Michaël Bauwens

467–498 Political institutions and financial cooperative development
Amr Khafagy