

EDITORIAL

Mary Hammill has been centrally involved in the production of The Aboriginal Child at School for 16 years and The Aboriginal and Islander Health Worker for 14 years. Many of you will have had contact with her over the years and know at first-hand her unfailing kindness, high level of general competence and deep interest in and concern for the wellbeing of Aboriginal learners and their teachers.

I have found much pleasure in working with Mary and am deeply appreciative of her expertise, efficiency and support.

Mary is retiring and I know that you, the readers of the journal, will join me in wishing her a most happy and rewarding retirement doing all the things she has been promising herself she would do "once she retired".
