Announcement

Central European History Editorship

The current Editor of Central European History, published by Cambridge University Press for its owner, the Central European History Society [formerly the Conference Group for Central European History] of the American Historical Association, has announced his intention not to serve beyond his second five-year term, which ends on June 30, 2014. The Society invites applications and nominations of outstanding scholars for the position of Editor.

Applicants should be members of the Society, resident in North America, who are accomplished historians of German-speaking Central Europe, have the intellectual range to work with manuscripts from different periods and regions in the history of German-speaking Central Europe, and who are conversant with the wide range of historical methodologies and topics currently represented among scholars of the history of German-speaking Central Europe. The institutional support required for the position is subject to discussion.

The Editor's responsibilities include soliciting manuscripts in all fields of the history of German-speaking Central Europe, shepherding submitted manuscripts through the peer review and editorial processes; working with the journal's print and electronic publisher, Cambridge University Press; working with the Executive Secretary/Treasurer of the Society; and maintaining collaborative relations with the Board of Editors of the journal and the Executive Board of the Society. Under the terms of the By-Laws of the Society, the Editor is ex officio a member of the Executive Board. Depending upon the structure of an applicant's editorial proposal, the Editor may be responsible for recruitment of an Associate Editor for book reviews and, subject to the terms of the institutional support arrangement, selection and supervision of an Assistant Editor for copy-editing. Production management and subscriptions are the responsibility of Cambridge University Press.

Applicants who advance beyond the initial stage of the selection process may be asked to attend the 2012 Annual Meeting of the German Studies Association in Milwaukee, October 4-7, 2012, to meet with the Editor Nominating Committee. That committee will make a recommendation to the Executive Board, which will refer a candidate to the Business Meeting of the Central European History Society Group at the January 2013 Annual Meeting of the American Historical Association in New Orleans, January 3–6, 2013, which will elect the next Editor for five-year term beginning July 1, 2014, and ending June 30, 2019.

Interested scholars should send an electronic version of their current curriculum vitae, a statement that discusses what they wish to accomplish as Editor of the journal and how they wish to accomplish it, and a preliminary sketch of institutional support by June 1, 2012, to CentralEuropeanHistory@case.edu. Inquiries about the position should be directed to the same e-mail address or by phone at 216-368-4144. Scholars who wish to nominate other scholars for the position should direct their nominations to the same e-mail address, together with a statement of whether the nominee has been approached by the nominator. Inquiries about current institutional support arrangements and the current practices of the Editor may also be directed to Kenneth F. Ledford at CentralEuropeanHistory@case.edu.

Editorial Policy

Central European History publishes articles, review articles, book reviews, and conference reports dealing with the history of German-speaking central Europe. The journal solicits manuscripts using all approaches to history and dealing with all historical periods. Because space is limited, articles which have been or soon will be published elsewhere are not accepted. Manuscripts submitted to CEH should not be under consideration by another journal pending decision of the editor on publication. If it is learned that an article is under submission to another journal while being considered at CEH, consideration will cease immediately. Unsolicited book reviews are not accepted.

Manuscripts and correspondence should be directed to:

The Editor
Central European History
Case Western Reserve University
Department of History
Mather House Room 209
11201 Euclid Avenue
Cleveland, OH 44106-7107
E-mail: centraleuropeanhistory@case.edu

The editors prefer that manuscripts be submitted in electronic form as e-mail attachments sent to the journal's address, preferably in Microsoft Word 2003 or later or WordPerfect 12.0 or later; Adobe Acrobat pdf files will also be reviewed. Manuscripts submitted in printed form must be accompanied by a compact disk or diskette with the article in Word, WordPerfect, or pdf. The entire text of all manuscripts, including footnotes and headings, must be prepared in double-spaced typescript with generous margins to allow for copyediting. Footnotes must be numbered consecutively and should be placed in a separate section at the end of the text.

Correspondence concerning book reviews should be sent to:

The Associate Editor
Central European History
Department of History
Amherst College
Amherst, MA 01002
E-mail: ceh@amherst.edu

Further guidelines for the preparation of manuscripts for publication in Central European History will be sent upon acceptance of materials by the editor. All materials will be edited to conform with The Chicago Manual of Style in matters regarding punctuation, capitalization, and format. The final decision on style remains with the editor.
