Special issue on war, taxes and finance in the long eighteenth century
Edited by Marjolein ‘t Hart, Pepijn Brandon and Rafael Torres Sánchez

Contents

Marjolein ‘t Hart, Pepijn Brandon and Rafael Torres Sánchez
Introduction: maximising revenues, minimising political costs – challenges in the history of public finance of the early modern period

Articles

Pepijn Brandon
‘The whole art of war is reduced to money’: remittances, short-term credit and financial intermediation in Anglo-Dutch military finance, 1688–1713

Joël Félix
‘The most difficult financial matter that has ever presented itself’: paper money and the financing of warfare under Louis XIV

Elisabeth Kaske
Austerity in times of war: government finance in early nineteenth-century China

Reflections and pathways

Patrick Karl O’Brien
The costs and benefits of mercantilist warfare
Financial History Review

EDITORS
S. Bartlett, Department of Social Sciences, Universidad Carlos III Madrid, goghi@economia.uc3m.es
University of Illinois
E. White, Rosemary Street, Cambridge CB2 1RF, UK

BIBLIOGRAPHY
S. Norell & A. Kringer, European University Institute, Firenze, 50016 San Donnino (Firenze), Italy

SUBSCRIPTIONS
Financial History Review (ISSN 0001-855X) is published three times a year in April, August and December. Three parts form a volume. The subscription price which includes postage and electronic access (but excluding VAT) for institutions is £56.00 (US$110.00 in USA, Canada and Mexico) for institutions, £28.00 (US$55.00 in USA) for individuals.

Manuscripts should be submitted to: Stefano Battilossi (battilos@clio.uc3m.es) and Rui P. Esteves (rui.esteves@economics.ox.ac.uk).

Submissions

1. Please provide a short (max. 150 words) abstract. Authors whose native language is not English are encouraged to send their manuscripts to a professional native speaker for a preliminary assessment prior to submission.

2. All contributions should be accompanied by a 150-word abstract.

3. Proofs will be sent to the corresponding author. Authors whose native language is not English are encouraged to send their manuscripts to a professional native speaker for a preliminary assessment prior to submission.

4. Authors are responsible for obtaining permissions to reproduce any material in which they do not own copyright, to be used in both print and electronic media, and for ensuring that the appropriate acknowledgement is included in their manuscript.

Preparation of manuscipts

1. Manuscripts should be typed double spaced throughout on A4, 20 lines/21 lines/cm or 8x10 typing, 1x1.5x1.5cm/cm. Marginal margins should be left on all sides.

2. Pages should be numbered consecutively, beginning with the first page. The page number should be placed at the top right-hand corner of the page.

3. Footnotes should be typed, double-spaced, numbered consecutively and be grouped together at the end of the manuscript. Footnotes will appear in the journal at the bottoms of such printed pages. Footnotes should be clearly marked with symbols of source citation. Substantive footnotes, involving argument or argumentation, should be avoided, such material being more properly contained within the body of the text. If an elaborate commentary on sources is required and cannot be incorporated within the body of the article, it should be appended to the article (to be included in the total extent of text).

4. Articles may be submitted, if appropriate, by electronic means to the Review's editors: Stefano Battilossi (battilos@clio.uc3m.es) and Rui P. Esteves (rui.esteves@economics.ox.ac.uk).

5. Tables, maps and figures should be submitted on separate pages and grouped together in a section at the end of the manuscript. Please number all pages in the manuscript with Arabic numerals, using that reference within the text, e.g. Table 1, Map 3, Figure 2. Please appropriate headings in the body of the test should be indicated in the text, i.e. (place the Table 1, a new line).

6. Corrections will follow usually the initial comments or are set out before; when writing the final version of this article. Copy-editing is tedious and time-consuming, and as a consequence, the Editors reserve the right to accept contributions for publication solely on the grounds that it does not follow the above conventions.

Conventions

1. Spelling. British spelling is preferred, using - in words with alternate spellings. American spelling will be accepted.

2. Foreign words or phrases in an English sentence should be underlined (for italic), except for proper names, or quotations or words in common use.

3. Quotations. Conventions for print and online: illustrates, 1986, 1991, p. 163. Quotations should be arranged in alphabetical order. If more than one text by the same author is cited for a particular year, then the works should be distinguished by a letter, e.g. 1986a, 1986b.

4. Numbers. Spans of numbers should be written out in words, except for the first occurrence of a number in a sentence, e.g. 20-30, 1980-81.

5. Dates. Days: 3-5 December 1929, 1959, etc. Month: December 1929, 1959. All dates must be written out, except within, or at the end of, a sentence should be indicated by three spaced full stops.

7. Sources. If the paper includes derivative references to primary sources such as articles, statutes, periodicals, yearbooks and documentary sources, these should appear in a separate section under an additional subheading, with full references (i.e. the source).

8. Sources. The source should be underlined (for italic), except for proper names, or quotations or words in common use.

9. Footnotes. All sources used in the manuscript should be included in footnotes and numbered in ascending order of appearance in Arabic numerals as superscript after the full stop. Footnotes should be numbered consecutively, beginning with the first page. Footnotes should be marked, wherever possible, by symbols that are not in common use within the body of the text. If an elaborate commentary on sources is required and cannot be incorporated within the body of the article, it should be appended to the article (to be included in the total extent of text).

10. Tables and graphs. Tables, maps and graphs should be original. They should include a short title, be numbered in order of appearance and provide details of the corresponding source.

Proofs

Typographical or factual errors may only be changed at proof stage. The publisher reserves the right to change authors for correction of non-technical errors.

Offprints

Authors will receive a PDF offprint of their published article.
Special issue on war, taxes and finance in the long eighteenth century
Edited by Marjolein ’t Hart, Pepijn Brandon and Rafael Torres Sánchez

Contents

Marjolein ’t Hart, Pepijn Brandon and Rafael Torres Sánchez
Introduction: maximising revenues, minimising political costs – challenges in the history of public finance of the early modern period 1

Articles

Pepijn Brandon
‘The whole art of war is reduced to money’: remittances, short-term credit and financial intermediation in Anglo-Dutch military finance, 1688–1713 19

Joël Félix
‘The most difficult financial matter that has ever presented itself’: paper money and the financing of warfare under Louis XIV 43

Elisabeth Kaske
Austerity in times of war: government finance in early nineteenth-century China 71

Reflections and pathways

Patrick Karl O’Brien
The costs and benefits of mercantilist warfare 97