CHRISTIAN ASCETICISM AND MODERN MAN. Translated and edited by Walter Mitchell. A fascinating and well documented history of Christian mortification and a consideration of how far asceticism has a place in the Church today. First the authors of this book, distinguished French theologians, doctors and psychologists, consider the traditional Christian teaching on the subject—asceticism in the New Testament, in the Patriotic era, in the Middle Ages, in France in the 17th and 18th Centuries, on Carmel, etc. Then follows a theological section, comprising three chapters on various aspects of the question. The second part of this book deals largely with psychological conditions affecting the practice of asceticism by Christians of the present day. $6.00

CHRISTIANITY AND FREEDOM by Gustave Thibon, and others. This book is based on a series of papers read to the Centre catholique des intellectuels français. From the Table of Contents: Christianity and Freedom; Hinduism and Freedom; Freedom According to Islam; The Free Man in the Mohammedan State; The Hellenic Inheritance; Freedom in the Orthodox World—The Human Person and Freedom in Eastern Anthropology, and, Russia and Freedom; The Necessary Conditions for a Free Society; Towards a Truly Christian Society. $2.75

WORDS OF FAITH by François Mauriac, translated by Rev. Edward H. Flannery. Words of Faith contains a collection of six discourses delivered by the famous French novelist and journalist in Paris, Brussels, Madrid, Geneva, and in Stockholm on the occasion of his reception of the Nobel prize for literature. They reveal M. Mauriac in a new dimension of candor and moral passion; and for his devotees they provide a fresh and intimate glimpse at the man behind the writer. $2.75

BERGSONIAN PHILOSOPHY AND THOMISM by Jacques Maritain. A significant addition to the Maritain works available in English. $6.00

INSIGHT by Bernard J. F. Lonergan. Insight, a monumental volume, was written as a first step towards composing a work on the nature and method of theology; its publication will greatly facilitate work in teaching theology and directing graduates. The author is professor at Pontificia Universita Gregoriana in Rome. $10.00

BEETHOVEN ENCYCLOPEDIA by Paul Nettl. This is the first book of its kind in the field of music. It is aimed at both professional musicians and music lovers. $6.00

DICTIONARY OF PHILOSOPHY. Dagobert D. Runes, Editor. This compact handy volume, all embracing in content, clear in exposition, objective in viewpoint and authoritative, is invaluable for the teacher, the student, or the layman. $6.00

DICTIONARY OF LATIN LITERATURE by James Mantinband. This volume deals with all periods and aspects of Latin literature from the earliest classical times, through the Middle Ages, until the Renaissance. $7.50

THE MEDIEVAL ALEXANDER

By George Cary,
Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge

Edited by D. J. A. Ross,
Reader in French, University of London

Alexander had a long and lively afterlife in the Middle Ages as a 'worthy'. He was variously thought of as the Devil (by theologians), as an unscrupulous politician and ruthless conqueror (by sober writers on statecraft), as a handy example of almost any virtue or vice (by preachers and writers of 'exempla') and as the great prototype of the knightly virtues—chivalry, bravery and liberality—by the writers of the Latin and vernacular Alexander-romances. He deserves investigation as a recurring theme in medieval thought and writing; he gives an insight into their variety as well as into their traditions and sources.

First a survey of the sources is presented. In the second part, the author has built on this bibliographical and textual foundation a complete picture of the opinions of Alexander held at different times, by different kinds of writers. This extends to the Renaissance itself, when in the work of Italian writers a new historical picture replaces the old legendary, exemplary and theological conceptions.

The reader is thus given a key to the movement of medieval thought (and particularly its strange transformations of classical and oriental material) by a young scholar whose early death cut short a promising career. The beautiful and amusing illustrations are chosen from the wealth of illuminated manuscripts, mosaics, tapestries and wood-cuts showing Alexander's career as the Middle Ages saw it.

GROWTH OF PAPAL GOVERNMENT IN THE MIDDLE AGES

By WALTER ULLMANN

"This informative, provocative book concentrates on a single theme: the persistence of the hierocratic theory of papal government from the end of the fourth century to the middle of the twelfth century. . . . Ample citations from the sources are buttressed by impressive footnotes, which not only adduce the latest scholarly researches but also frequently supply significant data. For its fresh appraisal of the sources and its summarization of research bearing on the hierocratic ideology, Dr. Ullmann's book merits the closest attention from both the specialist and the general historian of the Middle Ages."—American Historical Review. 482 pages. $8.00

THE MEDIAEVAL ACADEMY OF AMERICA

The Mediaeval Academy of America, founded in 1925 and incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, has for its purpose the promotion of research, publication, and instruction in mediaeval records, art, archaeology, history, law, literature, music, philosophy, science, social and economic institutions, and all other aspects of mediaeval civilization.

Membership in the Academy is open to all persons interested in the Middle Ages. Classes of membership include Life Member ($200), Contributing Member ($10 or more annually), and Active Member ($7.50 annually).

SPECULUM, the Academy's quarterly journal of mediaeval studies, is sent to all members. It is also available on subscription to libraries and other organizations not eligible for membership.

The Academy has published sixty-four books dealing with the Middle Ages. A list of these publications appears regularly in SPECULUM. Academy books are available to members, and to subscribers to SPECULUM, at a substantial discount.

Another major activity of the Academy is sponsorship of research projects in the various fields of mediaeval studies, such as the excavations at Cluny under Academy auspices and direction, the preservation of excavations in St-Denis, the study (by a group of American and English scholars) of the machinery of English government during a decade of the early fourteenth century, and the edition of Arabic, Hebrew and Latin texts of the commentaries of Averroes on the works of Aristotle.

A constituent of the American Council of Learned Societies, the Mediaeval Academy cooperates also with the American Academy in Rome, the Byzantine Institute, the Dumbarton Oaks Research Library, the American Research Center in Egypt, and other institutions with similar or related interests.

Since one of its aims is a closer association of all those interested in the Middle Ages, the Academy acts as a clearing-house for all mediaeval matters. Communications are issued from time to time informing members of Academy activities.

Annual Meetings of the Mediaeval Academy have been held in Boston, Chicago, New York, Princeton, Toronto, Washington, and at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. The thirty-second annual meeting will be held at Boston on 26-27 April 1957.

Inquiries regarding membership in the Academy or subscription to SPECULUM should be addressed to the Executive Secretary, Mediaeval Academy of America, 1430 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge 38, Massachusetts.
