

Government and Opposition

Instructions for Contributors

Submissions

Government and Opposition has a tradition of publishing in a style accessible to any interested reader, and we encourage authors to write in a style as clear and simple as the subject matter allows.

Articles should include a word count: in general the length of articles, including references and notes, should be limited to 8,000 words, but we would consider longer articles of up to 10,000 words where the comparative focus of the submission moves beyond a single country case. Articles should be made anonymous, with all self-identifying mention removed (including in the file name) to enable the blind-reviewing process. Articles should be accompanied by an abstract of around 150 words and between four and six keywords. We also give authors the opportunity to submit datasets along with their work should they wish. Datasets will not be subject to peer review and will be hosted on the publisher's platform alongside the article.

If you request colour figures in the printed version, you will be contacted by CCC-Rightslink who are acting on our behalf to collect Author Charges. Please follow their instructions in order to avoid any delay in the publication of your article.

Articles should conform to the Government and Opposition house style.

Online Manuscript Submission

All manuscripts must be submitted online at <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/gov-opp>

You must be registered on the online system in order to submit a manuscript. If you do not yet have an account on the submission site, please click the link "Register here" and follow the registration steps. You will be able to choose your user name and password during registration (and you can change them at any time if needed via the "Edit Account" link once you are logged in). If you are unsure whether you have an account or in case you have forgotten your login details, please enter your e-mail address in the Password Help field and click "Go"; do not create a new account. Your login details will be e-mailed to you straight away if an account for you exists.
