High-Risk Pregnancy

MANAGEMENT OPTIONS

NEW REGULARLY UPDATED RESOURCE AVAILABLE OCTOBER 2017

Editors: David James, Philip J. Steer, Carl P. Weiner, Bernard Gonik & Stephen C. Robson

Associate Editors: Zarko Alfirevic, Leanne Bricker, Aaron Caughey, Edwin Chandrachan, Ken Chiang, Jan Dickinson & George A. Macones

High-Risk Pregnancy: Management Options is the leading authority on the evidence-based management of high-risk pregnancy.

Published by Cambridge for the first time as a dynamic online resource it will be regularly reviewed and updated by experts in the field. This will ensure that users are always up-to-date with national and international guidelines and good practice.

It provides practical answers to the questions: What are the risks of this problem in pregnancy; How do I manage a patient with this problem; How do I perform this procedure?

Every section features a "Summary of Management Options" box, including a simplified evidence-based scoring system for each management strategy proposed: giving users a choice on which option to choose.

It also includes multimedia features, including video-clips and links to other websites and reference abstracts - making learning dynamic.
