WHEREAS, the manuscript listed above has been accepted for publication as an article in _____ Advances in Archaeological Practice, _____ American Antiquity, _____ Latin American Antiquity, and each author of the manuscript (Author) would like to transfer his/her copyrights in the final article (Article) to the Society for American Archaeology (SAA); and

WHEREAS, SAA, as the owner of Advances in Archaeological Practice, American Antiquity, and Latin American Antiquity (collectively, the Journals), wishes to accept such transfer under the terms set forth below;

It is agreed:

I. Representations and Warranties.

a) Author represents and warrants as follows:

- i. Author's submission to the Article is original, the Article does not infringe upon any copyright or proprietary rights of a third party, and Author has full power to enter into this Agreement. If excerpts (e.g., text, figures, tables, illustrations, or audio/ video files) from copyrighted works are included, a written release will be secured by the Author(s) prior to submission, and credit to the original publication will be properly acknowledged.
- ii. Article contains no material that is libelous, an invasion of privacy, or otherwise contrary to law, and does not contain any fraudulent, plagiarized or incorrectly attributed material.

- iii. Author has reviewed the final version of the Article, believes it represents valid work, and approves it for publication. Should the editors of the journal to which the Article has been submitted request the data upon which the work is based, Author shall produce it.
- b) Author's representations and warranties set forth above are for the benefit of SAA and Cambridge University Press (Cambridge), the publisher of the Journals. Author shall defend, indemnify, and hold harmless SAA and Cambridge for any breach of such warranties.

II. Intellectual Property Rights.

- a) In consideration of SAA undertaking to publish the Article in the journal listed above, which it will do in its sole discretion:
 - i. Author hereby transfers, assigns, and otherwise conveys all right, title and interest, including all copyrights (including the right to obtain copyright registration, whether separately or as part of the journal or otherwise, and to sue for past, present or future infringement of the Article) worldwide, in all languages, and in all forms of media now or hereafter known, to SAA. SAA may assign any and all rights transferred to it under this Agreement, including, without limitation, exclusive rights to Cambridge to publish the Article.
 - ii. Author grants SAA and Cambridge, and their respective agents, assigns, and licensees, the rights to use his/her name and biographical data (including professional affiliation) in the Article and in their or the journal's promotion. Author acknowledges and agrees that he/she will receive no monetary compensation whatsoever from Cambridge or SAA. Except as set forth below, Author must obtain prior written permission from Cambridge on behalf of SAA to reproduce any text, figures, tables, or illustrations from this Article in future works of his/her own, which permission shall not unreasonably be withheld.
 - iii. Author shall refer to Cambridge any inquiries regarding permission to reprint or use the Article in any manner and shall promptly report to Cambridge any unauthorized reproduction thereof.
- b) In return for the rights granted to SAA and Cambridge herein, SAA grants Author:
 - i. the right of republication of the Article in any book which Author writes or edits, without first obtaining permission from or making payment to the SAA.
 - ii. the right to post a copy of the Author's Original (AO) or the Submitted Manuscript Under Review (SMUR) or the Accepted Manuscript (AM) or the Version of Record (VOR) on the Author's personal or departmental website and/or in an institutional repository of the institution in which the Author worked at the time the article was first submitted, all which satisfy the Green Open Access mandate.
 - iii. the right to make or distribute copies of the Article for non-commercial teaching or education purposes consistent with fair use principles under copyright law. As a condition of this grant, SAA requires Author(s) to include the following copyright notice in connection with any such use: "© [year of publication of Article in Journal Title], Society for American Archaeology. Reprinted by permission of Cambridge University Press.
- c) Notwithstanding the foregoing, in the event SAA or Cambridge receives a request or otherwise desires to translate all, or any portion, of Author's Article, Cambridge will request Author's approval for the requested use.

- d) Except for copyright, other proprietary rights related to the Article (e.g., patent or other rights to any process or procedure) shall be retained by Author.

III. Authorship.

- a) If the Article or any portion of it has been commissioned by another person or organization, or if it has been written as part of the duties of an employee, an authorized representative of the commissioning organization or employer must also sign this Agreement stating his or her title in the organization.
- b) If the Article or a portion of it has been created in the course of any Author's employment by the United States Government, check the "Government" box at the end of this Agreement. A work prepared by a government employee as part of his/ her official duties is called a "work of the U.S. Government" and is not subject to copyright. If it is not prepared as part of the employee's official duties, it may be subject to copyright.

Notwithstanding the assignment of copyright in an article, the author retains the following non-transferable rights, (subject to appropriate permission having been cleared for any third-party material):

Definitions :

Author's Original (AO), Any version of the article that is considered by the author to be of sufficient quality to be submitted for formal peer review by a second party. The author accepts full responsibility for the article. Content and layout as set out by author.

Submitted Manuscript Under Review (SMUR), Any version of the article that is under formal review managed by Cambridge University Press (or the Society that owns the Journal). Cambridge University Press (or the Society that owns the Journal) recognizes its responsibility to provide objective expert review and feedback to the author, and, ultimately, to pass judgment on the fitness of the article for publication with an "accept" or "reject" decision. Content and layout follow Cambridge University Press's submission requirements.

Accepted Manuscript (AM), The version of the article that has been accepted for publication in the Journal. Cambridge University Press takes permanent responsibility for the article. Content and layout follow Cambridge University Press's submission requirements. This version may have been revised following peer review but may be subject to further editorial input by Cambridge University Press.

Version of Record (VoR), A fixed version of the article that has been made available by Cambridge University Press (or the Society that owns the Journal) by formally and exclusively declaring the article "published". This includes any "early release" article that is formally identified as being published even before the compilation of a volume issue and assignment of associated metadata, as long as it is citable via some permanent identifier(s). This does not include any "early release" article that has not yet been "fixed" by processes that are still to be applied, such as copy-editing, proof corrections, layout, and typesetting. The VoR includes any corrected or enhanced VoR.

Personal or departmental web page

- 1.1. The author may post either the AO or SMUR version of his/her article on his/her personal or departmental web page.
- 1.2. The author may post the AM version of his/her article on his/her personal or departmental web page, provided the posting is accompanied by a prominent statement that the article has been accepted for publication and will appear in a revised form, subsequent to peer review and/or editorial input by Cambridge University Press, in AMERICAN ANTIQUITY, LATIN AMERICAN ANTIQUITY or ADVANCES IN ARCHAEOLOGICAL PRACTICE published by Cambridge University Press, together with a copyright notice in the name of the copyright holder (Society for American Archaeology). On publication the full bibliographical details of the article (volume: issue number (date), page numbers) must be inserted after the journal title, together with a link to the Cambridge website address for the Journal.
- 1.3. The author may post the VoR version of the article (in PDF or HTML form) on his/her personal or departmental web page, no sooner than upon its appearance at Cambridge Core, subject to file availability and provided the posting includes a prominent statement of the full bibliographical details, a copyright notice in the name of the copyright holder (Society for American Archaeology), and a link to the online edition of the journal at Cambridge Core.

Institutional repositories and subject specific repositories

- 2.1. The author may post either the AO or SMUR version of his/her article in the Institutional Repository of the institution in which the author worked at the time the article was first submitted, or (for appropriate journals) in PubMed Central or UK PubMed Central or ArXiv.
- 2.2. The author may post the AM version of his/her article in the Institutional Repository of the institution in which author worked at the time the article was first submitted or (for appropriate journals) in PubMed Central or UK PubMed Central or ArXiv, provided the posting is accompanied by a prominent statement that the article has been accepted for publication and will appear in a revised form, subsequent to peer review and/or editorial input by Cambridge University Press, in AMERICAN ANTIQUITY, LATIN AMERICAN ANTIQUITY or ADVANCES IN ARCHAEOLOGICAL PRACTICE published by Cambridge University Press, together with a copyright notice in the name of the copyright holder (Society for American Archaeology), as appropriate). On publication the full bibliographical details of the article (volume: issue number (date), page numbers) must be inserted after the journal title, together with a link to the Cambridge website address for the Journal.
- 2.3. The author may post the AM version of the article in Institutional Repositories outside of the institution in which author worked at the time the article was first submitted or in non-commercial subject specific repositories only after the additional permission of Cambridge University Press has been obtained (not to be unreasonably withheld).
- 2.4. The author may post the VoR version of the article (in PDF or HTML form) in the Institutional Repository of the institution in which he/she worked at the time the article was first submitted, or (for appropriate journals) in PubMed

Central or UK PubMed Central or ArXiv, no sooner than one year after first publication of the article in the Journal, subject to file availability and provided the posting includes a prominent statement of the full bibliographical details, a copyright notice in the name of the copyright holder (Society for American Archaeology), and a link to the online edition of the Journal at Cambridge Core.

2.5. The author may post the VoR version of the article (in PDF or HTML form) after one year in Institutional Repositories outside of the institution in which he/she worked at the time the article was first submitted or in non-commercial subject specific repositories only after the additional permission of Cambridge University Press has been obtained (not to be unreasonably withheld).

SSRN and other commercial networks

3.1. Cambridge University Press does not allow full articles to be posted on SSRN, or other such commercial networks.

3.2. The author has the right to post an abstract of the article (either AO, SMUR, AM or VoR versions) (for appropriate journals) on the Social Science Research Network (SSRN) or other such commercial networks, provided the abstract is accompanied by a prominent statement that the full article appears in/ shall appear in/ has been submitted to AMERICAN ANTIQUITY, LATIN AMERICAN ANTIQUITY or ADVANCES IN ARCHAEOLOGICAL PRACTICE published by Cambridge University Press, together with full bibliographical details, a copyright notice in the name of the journal's copyright holder (Society for American Archaeology), and a link to the online edition of the journal at Cambridge Core.

Hard copies.

4.1. The author may make hard copies of the article or an adapted version for his/her own purposes, including the right to make multiple copies for course use by his/her students, provided no sale is involved.

Future works by yourself.

5.1. The author may reproduce the article or an adapted version of it in any volume of which he/she is editor or author. Permission will automatically be given to the publisher of such a volume, subject to normal acknowledgement.

If reuse is not covered by the above, please consult the Permissions Manager at Cambridge University Press [<http://www.cambridge.org/about-us/rights-permissions/>].
