

hunts for his hounds, and for his horn;
when she hears them chide it lustily,
in all haste she conveys to the city.

Browne, Hablot Knight, artist. One hundred drawings to illustrate Shakespeare's 'Venus and Adonis'. ca. 1850-1860. Folger 265954

These hunting scenes are one of twenty sheets of sketches by Hablot Knight Browne. Each set of five illustrations features pencil sketches with light ink washes, set in special gilt mounts and accompanied by hand-written lines from Shakespeare's Venus and Adonis.

From an original in the Folger Shakespeare Library

Licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike 4.0 International License (CC BY-SA 4.0)