What is Read and Publish?

Read and Publish deals provide an opportunity for institutions to transform their publishing output towards Open Access in a sustainable manner.

A Read and Publish agreement consists of two parts:

Read: Under the 'Read' element, your institution is granted access to the journals collections included within your deal.

Publish: Corresponding authors at your institutions are eligible for an Article Processing Charge (APC) discount or waiver when publishing in the Press' hybrid and/or fully Open Access journals, depending on the agreement.

Read and Publish with Cambridge

A flexible approach

We work closely with you to develop a transformative deal that is tailored to your publishing profile.
