Cambridge Prisms is a series of journals dedicated to addressing real world challenges. Plastics is one of the titles in the series.

Plastics is the first international journal focusing on the nexus between plastics, health and environment.

It offers researchers, analysts and policy-makers a unique insight into the interplay between plastics, people and nature by providing a platform for the publication and discussion of high-quality research. The journal publishes review and research papers on topics that directly explore the urgent and major societal challenges posed by the interactions, and examine possible solutions
