Cambridge Prisms is a series of journals dedicated to addressing real world challenges. Energy Transitions is one of the titles in the series.

Cambridge Prisms: Energy Transitions aims to explore all aspects of energy systems, their complexity and how they are evolving over time. The journal will delve into the various technologies for energy generation, the evolution of energy systems and the relationship with those systems in terms of their transitions, applications, controls, and innovation. In particular, the journal is interested in the dynamics of the integration and interactions of these systems and implications for the future.
