

7

Therapeutic cloning: the moral status of embryos

Questions to stimulate reflection

Do you believe that it is always and everywhere wrong to kill one of us?

Do you believe that if killing one of us would produce the greatest happiness of the greatest number it is acceptable?

Do you think the fact that therapeutic cloning could save a lot of suffering means that it must be morally acceptable?

Do you think it could ever accord with virtue to kill one of us?

Do we have the right to life from conception? If not when do we acquire the right to life?

Do you think that therapeutic cloning is morally acceptable?