The authors would like to thank their editors, Martine Walsh, Caroline Thiriau and Nicholas Murgatroyd, for their positive and professional support. They would also like to thank Rowland and Paul for their support and encouragement. The book has also benefited enormously from the useful feedback we have received from teachers and students. In particular we would like to thank the following teachers who reviewed and piloted the material throughout its development:

Christine Barton, Greece; Gillian Davidson, UK; Stephanie Dimond-Bayir and her students at the Bell School, Cambridge, UK; Jayne Herzog, UK; Brendan Ó Sé, Eire; Jonathon Marks, Poland; Marek Doskocz, Poland; Peter Lucchini, Cyprus; Helen Naylor, UK; Gabrielle Schieg Cleary, Switzerland.

Development of this publication has made use of the Cambridge International Corpus (CIC). The CIC is a computerised database of contemporary spoken and written English, which currently stands at over one billion words. It includes British English, American English and other varieties of English. It also includes the Cambridge Learner Corpus, developed in collaboration with the University of Cambridge ESOL Examinations. Cambridge University Press has built up the CIC to provide evidence about language use that helps to produce better language teaching materials.

The publisher has used its best endeavours to ensure that the URLs for external websites referred to in this book are correct and active at the time of going to press. However, the publisher has no responsibility for the websites and can make no guarantee that a site will remain live or that the content is or will remain appropriate.
