• Talking About Places on Campus

Connecting to the Topic

1. Look at the photo. Describe the people and the place that you see.
2. Beth, Ali, and Lee are students at Faber College. Do you think Faber College is in a big city or a small town? Why?
3. Where do you go to school? Is it in a big city or a small town?
PART 1

Conversation

Where Are You From?

Strategy

Using a T-Chart
A T-chart is a chart with two sides. T-charts help you compare two things. You can easily see similarities and differences when two pieces of information are next to each other.

Before You Listen

1 Comparing Two Colleges
Look at the photos. Talk with a classmate. Compare the two schools. Use the T-chart on page 5 to help you with your discussion. Use the words in the box and your own ideas.

Dan: So Peter, how do you ______ about Faber College?
Peter: I really like the ______. It looks very nice. How do you feel?
Dan: I like Faber, too. You're right. It's ______ because of all the trees. And it's like my hometown, so I feel very ______ here.

Peter: It's a very ______ town—not like my hometown. There isn't much to do at night here at Faber.
Dan: Yes, but there's a lot to do here during the day. There are a lot of ______ here, like sports.

Peter: You're right. Do you ______ your old friends? You don't see them now, right?
Dan: No. Actually, two of my friends are here. I'm lucky!

Peter: Yes, you are. So, how do you feel about your classes?
Dan: I'm ______ about my classes. They're really interesting.

How about you?
Peter: I’m a little ____________. I’m worried because I’m taking Introduction to Accounting. It’s hard for me.

Dan: That’s ______________. I worry about some of my classes too.
    But you’re smart, Peter, so don’t worry so much!

Stress

Stressing Words in English
In English conversation, some words are stressed. We say stressed words louder and more clearly than other words. We stress words for different reasons. Understanding stressed words helps you to understand and speak English better.

Example
Where are you from?
(stressed) (stressed)

In this book, you will practice listening for stress.

7 Listening for Stressed Words
Listen to the first part of the webcast again. The stressed words are marked.

Alex: Hello everyone. Welcome to Faber College Webcast. My name is Alex. Today, I’m talking to three new students at Faber. So, where are you from?
Ali: I’m from Silver Spring, Maryland.
Alex: Wow! That’s near a big city—Washington D.C.
Lee: And I’m from Seoul, Korea.
Alex: That’s a big city, too. Faber is in a small town. How do you feel about living here?
Lee: I’m excited. I like the campus. It’s pretty and quiet. There are so many trees!
Alex: What about you, Ali?
Ali: Not really. In fact, I’m a little nervous. This is my first time away from home.

8 Marking Stressed Words
Now listen to more of the webcast. This time, mark the stressed words that you hear.

Alex: That’s very normal. A lot of students feel nervous at first. Now, Beth, you’re from a small town, right?
Beth: Yes. I come from San Anselmo. It’s a small town in Northern California.
Alex: What’s it like?
Beth: Well, it's a lot like this town, so I'm very comfortable here.
Alex: Great! Now, a lot of new students miss their friends from home.
What about you?
Ali: Yeah, I really miss my friends.
Beth: I miss my friends, too, Ali, but there's a lot to do at Faber College—sports, clubs…

Contractions

Combining Words with Contractions
Contractions are a way to combine words. People use contractions in writing and in speaking. When you write contractions, you drop letters and replace those letters with an apostrophe (’). When you say contractions, you drop sounds.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Long Form</th>
<th>Contraction</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I am from Seoul</td>
<td>I'm from Seoul.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>That is near a big city.</td>
<td>That's near a big city.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>It is pretty and quiet.</td>
<td>It's pretty and quiet.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Comparing Long Forms and Contractions Listen to the following sentences from the webcast. Repeat the sentences after the speaker.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Long Form</th>
<th>Contraction</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I am from Silver Spring.</td>
<td>I’m from Silver Spring.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>That is near a big city.</td>
<td>That’s near a big city.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>There are so many trees!</td>
<td>There’re* so many trees!</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>It is pretty and quiet.</td>
<td>It’s pretty and quiet.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>What is it like?</td>
<td>What’s it like?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>There is a lot to do at Faber College.</td>
<td>There’s a lot to do at Faber College.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

* This contraction is not used in writing.

Listening for Contractions Listen to the sentences. Circle the letter of the sentence you hear.

1. a. There are a lot of activities on campus.
   b. There’re* a lot of activities on campus.
2. a. She is from a small town.
   b. She’s from a small town.
3. a. What is your name?
   b. What’s your name?
4. a. It is noisy here!
   b. It’s noisy here!
Using the Internet

Finding Information Online
You can use the Internet to practice listening and speaking. To find listening and speaking websites, use keywords. Keywords are words that are related to your topic. For example, if you want to find websites that help with English pronunciation, type the keywords “English pronunciation” to get a list of sites.

Example

!Submit

English pronunciation

After you do a search, the next step is choosing useful sites. One way to choose a useful site is to read the site description. Look for words in the description that tell you if a site is useful. For example, if you want intermediate level pronunciation activities, look for the word intermediate in the site description.

Which sites below are good for students? Which site is good for teachers? Which one is probably free? Which one is for advanced students? If you are a beginning student and don’t want to pay, the circled site is probably the most useful for you.

11 Practicing Your Search Skills  List possible keywords for the following situations:

Situation 1: You want to practice English pronunciation: ____________________________

Situation 2: You want to practice English contractions: ____________________________

Situation 3: You want to practice English stress: ____________________________

Situation 4: Your idea: ______________________________________________________

Now choose situation 1, 2, 3, or 4 above. Use the keywords you wrote and do an online search. Then write the names of the first four results.

1. __________________________________________________________

2. __________________________________________________________

3. __________________________________________________________

4. __________________________________________________________

Answer these questions.

1. Which site is most useful to you? Why? Circle it.

2. Is there a site that is not useful at all? Why? Put an X through it.

Talk It Over

12 Getting to Know You  Follow the steps to get to know your classmates.

1. Look at the questions in the chart on page 12. Add your own questions, if you want.

2. Practice asking your questions. Think about stress and contractions.

3. Walk around the room. Ask at least three people the questions. Write their answers in the chart.

4. Share your answers with the class.

Your Personal Information
Sometimes you must give your contact (personal) information. Contact information includes your name, your address, your phone number, and your email address. Sometimes you give your contact information when:

- you meet a new friend
- you are signing up for a class or an activity
- you go to a doctor or a dentist for the first time
- you apply for a job
- someone is sending you something

Example:
A: What is your name and address?
B: Jason Ganrick, 542 Ellsworth Street, Apartment 2R, San Francisco, California
A: What's your zip code?
B: 94933.
A: What's your phone number?
B: 415-555-9685.
A: Got it!

Note: Sometimes you don’t want to give your contact information. Situations include:

- at a party
- to a stranger

Here are some things to say when you don’t want to give your contact information:

A: What’s your email address?
B: I’d rather not say.

OR
I’m afraid I don’t give out my email address or phone number.

OR
Sorry, I don’t give out personal information.
1 Listening for Contact Information  Listen to the conversations. Write the information that you hear. If the person doesn’t give the information, write X.

1. First name: __________ Michael __________ Last name: __________ Green __________
   Address: __________ Grand Avenue, __________ Apartment __________
   Phone number: (________)

2. First name: __________ Last name: __________
   Address: __________ P.O. Box __________ Brooklyn, NY __________
   Email address: __________@__________.com

3. First name: __________ Last name: __________
   Address: __________ Oak Street, __________ Los Angeles, CA __________
   Phone number: (________)
   Email address: __________

4. First name: __________ Last name: __________
   Phone number: (________)

2 Writing Contact Information  Write information about yourself.

!MyMail screenshot

- First Name
- Last Name
- Address
- Phone Number
- Email Address

[Add button]
3 Asking for and Giving Contact Information Work with a partner. Ask your partner the contact information questions. Then switch roles.

Example:

Student A: What’s your name?
Student B: My name is Oscar Sandoval.
Student A: What’s your address?
Student B: My address is 1345 University Avenue, San Diego, California, 92103

Student A: What’s your phone number?
Student B: It’s (515) 555-7869.
Student A: What’s your email address?
Student B: It’s osandoval@ials.com

4 Asking for and Confirming Contact Information Walk around the room. Ask your classmates the questions you practiced in Activity 3. Write down the names, addresses, phone numbers, and email addresses of four classmates. To make sure you hear information correctly, confirm it with your classmate. If you don’t want to give out your personal information, use the expressions in the box on page 13.

Example:

Student A: What’s your address?
Student B: 4562 Mission Road, San Marcos, California, 92069.
Student A: 92069?
Student B: That’s right.

Neighborhoods, Cities, and Towns
PART 3  Listening

Getting Meaning from Context

Before You Listen

1. Prelistening Questions Discuss these questions with your class. Talk about your school or a school you know.

1. Is the school big or small? How many students are there?
2. If students need money, do they go to an ATM (an automated teller machine) or to the bank? Are there ATMs near the school?
3. Talk about some of the places on the campus or near the school: Is there a library? Where is it? Is there a Student Union? What do people do there? Is there a café?
4. How do most students get to school? Do they take the bus? The subway? Do they walk?
5. Look at the photo of Florida State University (FSU) in Tallahassee, Florida. Describe what you see on the picture. Talk about the following:
   - the students
   - the buildings
   - plants (trees and flowers)
   - the weather

After you describe the photo, discuss your answers to these questions with the class.

1. What is the student lifestyle probably like at FSU? Give reasons for your answer.
2. Do you want to go to a school like FSU? Why or why not?
Listen

2 Using Context Clues You will hear five conversations. Listen to each conversation and choose the best answer.

1. What is the University of California like?
   A It's like Faber College.
   B It's a big school.
   C It's a small school.
   D It has 14,000 students.

2. What does Ali think about his Art History class?
   A It's hard.
   B It's easy.
   C It's boring.
   D It's interesting.

3. Where is Beth going?
   A to the bank
   B to the Student Union
   C to the café
   D to the gym

4. Where is the English Department?
   A next to the library
   B next to the café
   C across from the Student Union
   D the next building

5. Why doesn't Beth take the bus?
   A She thinks the bus is too crowded.
   B She thinks the bus stop is too far.
   C She thinks the bus takes too long.
   D She wants to get some exercise.
Listen to Descriptions of Neighborhoods

Before You Listen

3 Prelistening Questions You are going to listen to a conversation. Before you listen, look at the pictures and discuss the questions below with a partner.

1. Describe the two neighborhoods. What is life like in each neighborhood?
2. What are the good things (the pros) and the bad things (the cons) about living in each neighborhood? Complete the pro/con T-chart.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Listen

5 Listening for the Main Idea  Listen to the conversation and circle the best word to complete the statement.

The woman thinks her neighborhood is better/worse than the man's neighborhood.

6 Listening for Details  Listen again. What does the woman like about South Beach? What doesn’t she like about her neighborhood? What does the man like about Little Gables? What doesn’t he like about his neighborhood? Complete the pro/con T-chart for the two neighborhoods in the conversation.

<table>

After You Listen

7 Discussing Neighborhoods  Talk about the answers to these questions in small groups.

1. What is your neighborhood like? Describe it to your classmates. Use the words from this chapter and your own ideas.

2. Describe a good neighborhood for each type of person:
   - an elderly couple
   - two college students
   - a young family
   - two successful young professionals
Listening to Directions

Before You Listen

Strategy

Visualizing
When you listen to directions, it’s a good idea to visualize them. That is, “see” a picture in your mind of the directions and the places the speaker talks about. For example, if the speaker says, “Go straight on this street and then turn right. The café is next to the theater” make a map in your mind as you listen.

Vocabulary Preview
Listen to these expressions for giving directions. Listen to the directions. Visualize and draw them in the space provided as you listen.

CHAPTER 1
9 Listening for the Main Idea  Listen to the conversation and circle the correct answer to the question.

Does the man understand the woman’s directions?

Yes  No

Listen

10 Listening for Specific Information  Listen again. Draw a line to follow the woman’s directions. Compare your map with a partner’s.

11 Checking Directions  Listen again and check your answer to Activity 10.

12 Listening to and Giving Directions  Now use the map above and take turns giving your partner directions to the following places on the map. Start at the California Film Institute. Use your finger to follow the directions that you hear.

- Kaiser Permanente Medical Center
- Wells Fargo Bank
- Signature Thai Cuisine
- San Rafael Laundry & Cleaners
- Dance Shop
After You Listen

Getting Directions Answer the questions.

1. How do you usually get directions? Check (✓) the ones you use.
   - ask people
   - use a street map
   - print directions from the Internet
   - use GPS (global positioning system) in a car
   - use GPS on a phone

2. What are the pros and cons of each of these ways to get directions? Complete the pro/con chart.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Pros</th>
<th>Cons</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

3. Get into small groups and compare your pro/con charts. Then discuss your answer to this question: Which ways of getting directions are best for which situations? Talk about three situations with your group. Use your own ideas or ideas from the box.

Example:

A: Asking people for directions is best when you’re visiting a new city.
B: But it’s dangerous to talk to strangers!
C: I don’t think so. And it’s a good way to practice your English.
PART 4 Speaking

Talking About Places on Campus

Talking About Maps Look at the map and answer these questions. Then compare your answers with a partner.

1. What kind of map is this? How do you know?
2. Name five buildings you see. What activities happen in each building you and your partner named?
3. Where can you find a map like this?
4. What are some reasons that people need a map like this?

Now discuss your answers with the class.
2 Understanding a Campus Map Work with partner. Find these places on the campus map on page 23:

- a. Where do you go to buy books? ________________ the bookstore
- b. Where do you go to borrow books? ________________
- c. Where do you go to get a snack? ________________
- d. Where are the science classes? ________________
- e. Where do you go if you get sick? ________________
- f. Where can you exercise? ________________
- g. Where do you park your car? ________________
- h. Where do you go to see a student performance? ________________

Vocabulary Tip
You buy books at a bookstore. Sometimes you can also buy pens, paper, and other school supplies at a bookstore. You borrow books from a library. You can also study at a library.

3 Role-Play Find any starting place on the map on page 23. Ask your partner directions to three of the following places. Then switch roles.

- the library
- east parking lot
- the swimming pool
- the science building
- the bookstore
- the student union

Example:
Student A: Excuse me. How do I get to the bookstore?
Student B: Go straight on Judson Avenue. Turn left on Phelan Ave. The bookstore is close to Ocean Avenue, across from the snack bar and terrace.
Student A: Thanks!

Putting It Together

4 Discussing How You Feel About Something Answer the following questions. Give a reason for your answer and try to use the vocabulary you learned in this chapter. Then ask and answer the questions with a partner. Finally, share your answers with the class.

1. How do you feel about this class?
2. How do you feel about learning English?
3. How do you feel about your school?
4. How do you feel about your neighborhood?

Example:
A: How do you feel about this class?
B: I feel excited because I’m going to learn a lot. How do you feel?
B: I feel nervous about learning English because it’s hard.
A: I think that’s normal.
Check (✔) the things you did in this chapter. How well can you do each one?

I can listen for main ideas.
I can listen for specific information.
I can guess the meanings of words from context.
I can listen for and use stress and contractions.
I can choose useful sites on the Internet.
I can ask for and give personal information.
I can confirm information.
I can use a T-chart to compare things.
I can talk about places on campus.
I can describe neighborhoods.
I can listen to and give directions.

Write about what you learned and what you did in this chapter.

In this chapter,
