* This Pedigree varies in a few points from one given by Mr. Thoresby, in his Ducatus Leodensis, p. 203, from Hopkinson's Pedigrees of the West Riding, compared with an Harleian MS.

† This is the only one of the family in the magistracy of the city of York, except Edward Gaile, who was sheriff in 1665. — In York cathedral is this epitaph:

"Here lyeth George Gayle, esquier, who was twyce mayor of thys citty, and of the King's mynt he was also treasure. With whome lyeth here by Lady Marye his wyffe and Thomas his sone, whose soulles God pardon. All thys that redyeth this, or see, of your charity say on Paternoster and an Ave for theyer soulles, all Xten soulles. A. 1567.

" J. H. U. Marcy, Marcy, Marcy, LADY Helpe, Helpe, Helpe, And all the Saints in Heaven Pray for us."

‡ He was afterwards of Ireland, whence his descendants during the rebellion there transplanted themselves to Whitehaven, where they still continue. Thoresby, Ducatus Leodensis, p. 533.

§ His epitaph is given in p. 539.—Henry Gale, esq. of the Inner Temple, and of Taunton Dean in Somersetshire, mentioned in Noble's Continuation of Granger, vol. III. p. 341. was a relation of the Dean, and himself distinguished for letters, chiefly relative to polemic divinity. He died, says Bromley, in 1742, but upon what authority does not appear.

|| He was F. R. and A. SS. and M. P. for Northallerton in 1708; also a commissioner of the excise.  Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries, and treasurer of that Society 21 years; a learned judicious writer. †† He gave Thoresby some tea from North Carolina; Bibl. Top. Brit. vol. II. p. 451; an Indian axe, p. 472; and a MS. 542. 529.—He calls him Major Gale, p. 615.
