

Index

- AAP. See American Academy of Pediatrics ABCT. See Association for Behavioral and Cognitive Therapies abstinence treatments, 307 abusive behaviors, digital, 142–143 Acceptable Use Policies, 383 acculturation, 177–178 active use, 23–25, 90–91, 375–376 activism, LGBT+, 199
ADAA. See Anxiety and Depression Association of America addiction. See also internet addiction;
    problematic social media use
    digital media design features promoting, 367, 375–376 gaming, 109–112, 114–115, 119–120, 301 smartphone, 109–115, 119–120, 302–303
Addictive Patterns of Use (APU) scale, 302–303, 308 ADHD. See attention deficit hyperactivity disorder adolescents. See also specific topics barriers to mental health services for, 389–390 beneficial uses of social media by, 229 brain development and digital media use studies in, 119–120 change experienced by, 1 conceptual considerations for digital media usage and mental health of, 19–27 developmental psychopathology approach to, 3–4 digital media as developmental context for, 9, 21–22 digital mental health interventions for, 390–391, 403–404 digital technology vulnerabilities of, 367 externalizing and health risk behavior rise in, 264 fame aspirations of, 91–92 history of study of social media use by, 11–15 idols of, 50–51 measurement of digital media use by, 17–18, 219–220, 223 overview of digital media use by, 10–11 selective exposure to social media by, 40–43, 48–50 self-injurious thoughts and behaviors in, 339 sexuality development of, 135–137 sleep role in development of, 324–330 social interactions of, 1–3 social media as social context for, 44–45, 47–52, 54 as target population for mental health prevention and intervention, 389 Adolescents' Digital Technology Interactions and Importance (ADTI) scale, 222, 308–309 adverse online experiences, 223–224 affirmation, narrative partner provision of, 72–74 affordance theory, 47–48. See also transactional affordance theory of social media uses affordances, social media, 14–21, 44–45, 47–52 adolescent identity development and, 76–77 anonymity as, 45–48, 138–139
    asynchronicity as, 52
    attention problems and, 323
    for communication, 16–17, 21
    cue manageability as, 52–53
    cultural beliefs and, 162–163 marginalized population digital media use and, 204–205
    scalability as, 52–53
    sexually oriented use and, 138–139 Africa, digital media use in, 164 age, problematic social media use association with, 304 agency in adolescent identity development, 72 digital, 380
    sexual, 146

- aggression, 268–269 direct, 142–143
 exposure to online, 269
 media violence effects on, 43–44 offline and online overlap of, 268–269
 quantity of digital media use and, 268
- aggressive sexual behavior, 150–151
- AI. See anterior insula
- alcohol use, 273 posts related to, 274–277
 quantity of digital media use and, 273–274
- algorithmic exclusion, 204
- algorithms
 peer relationship research and, 93–94 racial inequalities perpetuation by, 179 selective exposure to media with, 41–42
- American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) media use policy statement of, 232 routine screening recommendations of, 308
- American Psychological Association (APA), mental health app evaluation by, 397
- amygdala (AMYG), 108, 111–115
- anorexia nervosa (AN), 243–244
- anterior cingulate cortex, 107–111
- anterior insula (AI), 107–111
- anterior temporal pole (ATP), 108, 115–117
- anti-mainstream sentiments, 68–69
- antisocial behavior, 265 text messaging, 267
- anxiety adverse online experiences associated with, 223–224 beneficial digital media behaviors for, 228–231 clinical and intervention resources for, 232–233
 DSM-5 definition of, 217–218
 FOMO association with, 226
 future research directions in, 231–232 gender association with, 227–228
 highly visual social media association with, 225–226
 hypotheses on relationship between social media use and, 220–222
 prevalence of, 217 problematic digital media behaviors for, 223–228
 problematic social media use correlation
 with, 220, 304
 sleeplessness association with, 227 social media use association with, 219–223 theories of, 217–218
- Anxiety and Depression Association of America (ADAA), mental health app evaluation by, 397
- APA. See American Psychological Association
- appearance adolescent concerns with, 242–244
 investment in, 250
 social media emphasis on, 70–71
 social media feedback on, 225, 243, 246, 248–251
- appearance-related social media consciousness (ASMC), 250–251
- applications (apps). See also specific apps attention-holding design features of, 367, 375–376 history of research on adolescent use of, 14–15 identity development support through, 77 mental health intervention delivery by,
 395–397
- APU scale. See Addictive Patterns of Use scale
- arousal media multitasking effects on, 321
 sexual, 140
 sleep problems associated with, 326–327
- artificial intelligence, mental health intervention delivery by, 400
- artificial light, circadian rhythm disruption by, 326
- ASD. See autism spectrum disorder
- Asia, digital media use in, 164–165
- Asian Americans
 protective mechanisms of social technologies for, 192–194
 risks of digital media use by, 190–192
- ASMC. See appearance-related social media consciousness
- association, social media platforms allowing, 21
- Association for Behavioral and Cognitive Therapies (ABCT), mental health app
 evaluation by, 397
- ATP. See anterior temporal pole
- attention deterioration of control processes of, 321
 digital media design features and, 367, 375–376
 digital media effects on, 317–318, 322–335
 future research directions in, 323
 media multitasking effects on, 317–322
 narrative partner provision of, 72–74 positive effects of digital media on, 322–335
 on social media, 75–76
 social media use and, 319–322
 TV effects on, 317–318 video game effects on, 317–318, 322–323
- attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD), 201 game-based interventions for adolescents
 with, 396–398

- media effects on related behaviors of, 317–318
- social media use and, 320–322
- attentional networks, brain, 107–111
- attitudinal outcomes, of sexually oriented digital media use, 147–149
- audiovisual anonymity, 139
- audiovisual cues, in computer-mediated communication, 45–48
- augmented reality, mental health intervention delivery by, 398–399
- authenticity, in social media, 172–175
- autism spectrum disorder (ASD), 201, 396–398
- automatic thoughts, in depression and anxiety, 218
- auto-play, 375–376
- avoidance
- in anxiety and depression, 222
  - of selfies, 247
- awareness, of self-injurious thoughts and behaviors and suicidality, 352
- Be Internet Awesome curriculum, 373–374
- BED. See binge eating disorder
- bedtime, digital media delay of, 325–326
- behavioral change, for healthy digital habits, 376–378, 380–383
- behavioral component, of digital media usage, 23–25
- behavioral outcomes, of sexually oriented digital media use, 150–151
- Bergen Social Media Addiction Scale (BSMAS), 302
- biased scanning, 145
- binge eating disorder (BED), 243–244
- biracial-ethnic identities, 202–203
- Black adolescents
- beneficial uses of social media for, 230–231
  - news media impacts on, 224
  - protective mechanisms of social technologies for, 192–194
  - risks of digital media use by, 190–192
- Black Twitter culture, 193
- blogs
- content analysis of, 17–18
  - historical research on adolescent use of, 13
- blue light, 326
- Blue Whale Challenge, 344
- BN. See bulimia nervosa
- body dissatisfaction, 243–244
- body image, 242, 255
- adolescent developmental period and, 242–244
  - depression and anxiety association with, 225
  - future research directions in, 254–255
  - social media behaviors linked to, 246–249
  - social media content devoted to, 251–254
  - social media impact on, 86–87, 225, 244–251
  - subjective social media experiences linked to, 250–251
  - theoretical frameworks for, 244–246
- body positivity, 253–254
- brain development
- adolescent studies, 119–120
  - age group comparisons and longitudinal studies, 120–122
  - current research limitations in, 106–107
  - digital media use and, 104–107, 118–124
  - early childhood studies, 118–119
  - reward processing, 105–106, 108, 111–115, 119–124
  - self-regulatory control, 105–111, 122–124
  - social information processing, 105–106, 108, 115–117, 119–124
- brain stimulation, 124
- Brazil, selfie use in, 175–176
- BSMAS. See Bergen Social Media Addiction Scale
- bulimia nervosa (BN), 243–244
- bulletin boards
- content analysis of, 17–18
  - historical research on adolescent use of, 13
- bullying, 268–269. See also cyberbullying
- quantity of digital media use and, 268
- Caribbean, digital media use in, 165–166
- CBT. See Cognitive Behavioral Therapy
- CBT-IA. See Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy for Internet Addiction
- cell phones. See smartphones
- ensorship, 74–75
- The Center for Humane Technology, 374, 378–379
- certainty, sexual, 146–147
- chatbots, mental health intervention delivery by, 400
- chatrooms
- content analysis of, 17–18
  - historical research on adolescent use of, 13
- #ChatSafe, 351–352, 405–406
- China
- governmental control of internet in, 179
  - selfie use in, 175–176
- cigarette use, posts related to, 275
- cingulo-opercular (CO) network, 107–111
- circadian rhythm, device disruption of, 326
- citizenship. See also digital citizenship
- sexual, 199
- click bait, 70–71
- CMC theories. See computer-mediated communication theories
- CO network. See cingulo-opercular network

- co-construction theory
  - externalizing and health risk behaviors in, 264
  - of social media versus offline contexts, 44–45, 86–87
- coercion, sexual, 142–143
- Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (CBT)
  - online or web-based mental health interventions using, 393–394
  - for problematic social media use, 306–307
- cognitive component, of digital media usage, 23–25
- cognitive control, digital media use and, 107–111
- cognitive processing, media multitasking effects on, 318–319, 321
- cognitive theory, of depression and anxiety, 218, 220–222, 228–229
- Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy for Internet Addiction (CBT-IA), 306–307
- coming out process, 196–208
- comments
  - body image and, 225, 246, 248–251
  - length restrictions on, 75
- commitments
  - formation of self-evaluated, 66–67
  - future research directions in, 76–77
  - identity development and, 64–66
  - to racial-ethnic identity, 189–190
  - relationship, 149
  - social media impact on, 68–71
- Common Sense Media, 374, 377, 379
- communication. See also digital communication
  - analysis of content of, 17–18
  - asynchronous, 52, 138–139
  - digital media use in, 9
  - digital platform affordances for, 16–17, 21
  - history of internet use for, 12–13
  - history of social networking site and social media app use for, 14–15
- communication theories
  - computer-mediated, 45–48
  - selective exposure theory, 40–43
  - selectivity paradigm representation in, 40–41
  - social media impact on, 39–40
  - uses-and-gratifications theory, 40–41
- communion themes, in adolescent identity development, 72
- communities
  - disadvantaged neighborhoods, 200
  - LGBT+, 195
  - racial-ethnic based online, 192–194
  - on social media, 75–76
  - structures of, 168–172
- comparison groups, for digital media research, 19
- Compulsive Texting, 300–309
- compulsory heterosexuality, 194–195
- computer access, 9, 188–189, 201–202
- computer-mediated communication (CMC) theories, 45–48
- conditionality paradigm of media effects theories, 43
  - developmental susceptibility, 44
  - dispositional susceptibility, 43
  - social media as social context, 44–45
  - social-context susceptibility, 44
- conduct problems, 265
  - quantity of digital media use and, 265–266
- conflicts, in adolescent identity development, 74–76
- Conformist stage, of ego development theory, 66–67
- connectedness
  - self-injurious thought and behavior reduction through, 346–347
  - social media role in, 89–91
- Conscientious stage, of ego development theory, 66–67
- contagion, of self-injurious thoughts and behaviors, 343–344
- content analysis, 17–18
- context collapse, 196
- Context-Convergence Hypothesis, 44
- control networks, brain, 107–111
- coping techniques, social media exchange of, 348
- core beliefs, in depression and anxiety, 218
- counterculture movements, 68–69
- COVID-19 pandemic digital media as intervention tool during, 283–285
  - problematic social media use rates and, 303
- crime, online, 266–267
- critical awareness, of digital media design features and psychological principles, 375–376, 380–383
- cross-cultural research, 162–163
- crowding out hypothesis, 220–221
- cue manageability, 52–53
- Cultivation Theory, 44
- cultural tools, digital media as, 162–163, 176–177
- cultural values in digital media, 162–163, 167
  - in Africa, 164
  - in Asia, 164–165
  - challenges in study of, 176–178
  - future research directions in, 176–179
  - governmental use of digital media to reassert, 179
  - in Latin America/Caribbean, 165–166
  - in Middle East, 166

- culturally mediated self, 172, 176
 narcissism of selfies and, 175–176
 social media as identity playground, 172–175
- culturally-sensitive mental health interventions, 405
- culture
 in adolescent identity development, 64 community structures in digital societies and, 168–172
 depression and anxiety in response to, 218 variation in, 177–178
- curricula, digital citizenship, 368–374
 Cyber Civics Classroom Curriculum, 373
 Cyberbalance and Healthy Content Choices Curriculum, 373
- cyberbullying, 268–269
 depression and anxiety association with, 223–224
 among people with intellectual disabilities, 201–202
 quantity of digital media use and, 268
 school-based initiatives on, 368, 374, 383 self-injurious thought and behavior risk
 with, 345
 of sexual/gender minority youth, 197–198
- CyberCivics, 377
- cyber-delinquency, 266–267
- cybersex, 271–273
- CyberWise, 374, 378–379
- Cyworld, 173
- dACC. See dorsal anterior cingulate cortex
- daytime sleepiness, 324
- deficit-producing hypothesis, 321
- delinquency, 265
 offline and online overlap of, 266–267 online depictions of offline, 267
 quantity of digital media use and, 265–266
- depression
 adverse online experiences associated with, 223–224 beneficial digital media behaviors for, 228–231 challenges in studying social media relationship with, 219–220 clinical and intervention resources for, 232–233
 DSM-5 definition of, 217–218
 FOMO association with, 226
 future research directions in, 231–232
 gender association with, 227–228
 highly visual social media association with, 225–226
 hypotheses on relationship between social media use and, 220–222
 among LGBT+ youth, 197–198 online single session interventions for, 394
 prevalence of, 217
 problematic digital media behaviors for, 223–228
 problematic social media use correlation
 with, 220, 304
 sleeplessness association with, 227
 social media use and, 90, 219–223
 theories of, 217–218
- descriptive norms, 87–88
- detection, of self-injurious thoughts and behaviors and suicidality, 350–351
- Developing Healthy Social Media Practices
 (DHSMP) Prevention program, 305–306
- development. See also brain development; identity development; sexuality development body image and disordered eating during adolescent period of, 242–244 sleep role in, 324–330 transactional theories of, 47–50
- developmental context, digital media as, 9, 21–22
- developmental factors, selective social media use and, 42
- developmental psychopathology, 3–4
- developmental susceptibility, 44
- deviancy training, 280
- devices access to, 9, 188–189, 201–202 addiction to, 109–115, 119–120, 302–303
 attention-holding design features of, 367, 375–376
 circadian rhythm disruption by, 326 cultural differences in terminology used for, 173 data collection technologies using, 92–93, 309–310
 mental health intervention delivery by, 395–397
 passive sensing technology using, 309–310, 399–400
 school policies on, 365–366, 383
 sleep displacement by, 325–326
- DHSMP Prevention program. See Developing Healthy Social Media Practices Prevention program
- Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders (DSM-5)* depression and anxiety definition in, 217–218
 Internet Gaming Disorder definition in, 301
- dialogue
 in adolescent identity development, 72–74
 social media impact on, 74–76
- diary, media use, 377–378

- diary designs for measurement of digital media use, 18
 in study of self-injurious thoughts and behaviors, 341
- diet, media, 378–379
- differential susceptibility to media effects model (DSMM), 41–43
 developmental factors, 42
 developmental susceptibility, 44
 dispositional factors, 42
 dispositional susceptibility, 43
 social context factors, 42–43
 social-context susceptibility, 44
- digital agency, 380
- digital citizenship current state of education on, 380–383 curricula and resources for, 368–374
 definition of, 366–367
 school-based initiatives on, 365–374, 380–384
- Digital Citizenship Collection, 373
- Digital Citizenship curriculum, 373
- The Digital Citizenship Handbook for School Leaders, 373
- Digital Citizenship+ Resource Platform, 373
- digital communication community structure effects of, 168–172
 future research directions in, 94–95 opportunities and challenges for study of, 92–94
 peer relationships in context of, 85, 96 theoretical considerations in study of, 86–87 transformed peer constructs in, 87–92
- digital divide, 188–189
- digital footprints, 368
- Digital Literacy & Citizenship Curriculum, 373
- digital media. See also social media; specific topics access to, 188–189, 201–202 active versus passive use of, 23–25, 90–91, 375–376 attention effects of, 317–318, 322–335
 attention-holding design features of, 367, 375–376 change as central to, 1–3 comparison groups in study of, 19 cultural differences in terminology used for, 173 as cultural tools, 162–163, 176–177
 definition of, 1–3, 10 depression and anxiety beneficial behaviors on, 228–231 depression and anxiety problematic behaviors on, 223–228 as developmental context during adolescence, 9, 21–22 developmental psychopathology approach to, 3–4 in externalizing and risk-taking behaviors, 265–285 governmental control and use of, 179 in high-income economies, 162 in lower- and middle-income economies, 162 measurement of use of, 17–18, 219–220, 223 mechanisms underlying mental health relationship to usage of, 26 overview of adolescent use of, 10–11 psychological well-being impacts of activities using, 23–25, 90–91, 367, 375–376 re-imagination of conceptualization of usage of, 22–25 research challenges caused by fluid landscape of, 15–17 safe spaces provided by, 198–199 school-based initiatives on digital citizenship and, 365–374, 380–384 school-based initiatives on healthy use of, 365–367, 374–376, 383–384 self-reflection about personal use of, 377–378, 380–383 sexuality development and, 135–138 sexuality implications of, 145–151 sexually oriented use of, 135, 137–145, 151–153 sleep effects of, 324–330
 as social context, 44–45, 47–52, 54 social interactions through, 9 user variables underlying mental health relationship to usage of, 26–27
- digital media habits adolescent development studies of, 119–120 age group comparisons and longitudinal studies of, 120–122 brain development and, 104–107, 118–124 early childhood development studies of, 118–119 healthy, 374–376 reward processing role in, 105–106, 108, 111–115, 119–124 self-regulatory control role in, 105–111, 122–124 social information processing role in, 105–106, 108, 115–117, 119–124
- digital media research, 9, 27–28 changes in, 4–5 clinical trial studies in, 310 conceptual considerations for, 19–27 definitions and terminology for, 10 design of, 309–310 history of, 11–15 methodological challenges in, 15–19 narrative research methods in, 76

- naturalistic observation in, 76, 92–93 overview of adolescent digital media use, 10–11 person-specific approach to, 54–55 sample demographics and diversity in, 311 self-injurious thought and behavior challenges in, 352–354 smartphone data collection in, 92–93, 309–310
- digital mental health interventions (DMHIs), 389, 406 barriers to existing mental health services and, 389–390 benefits of, 390–391 challenges and future directions to, 400–406 culturally-sensitive and equitable, 405 effectiveness of, 401–402 modes of delivery of, 391–400 privacy and security issues in, 402–403 research-commercial gap in, 402 scalability of, 404 suggested readings for, 392 youth-centered, 403–404
- digital metacognition, 377–380
- digital micro interventions (DMIs), 351
- digital monitoring and controlling, dating abuse via, 142–143
- digital natives, 15
- digital societies, 168–172
- digital status seeking, 22
- digital third space, 200
- digitally-mediated self, 172, 176
 narcissism of selfies and, 175–176
 social media as identity playground, 172–175
- direct aggression, 142–143
- disadvantaged neighborhoods, 200
- disclosure, by LGBT+ youth, 196–208
- discrimination against racial-ethnic minority youth, 190–192 against sexual/gender minority youth, 197–198
- disinhibition, online, 43
- disordered eating, 242, 255
 adolescent developmental period and, 242–244
 future research directions in, 254–255
 social media behaviors linked to, 246–249
 social media content devoted to, 251–254
 social media impact on, 244–246
 subjective social media experiences linked to, 250–251
 theoretical frameworks for, 244–246
- displacement, sleep, 325–326
- dispositional factors, selective social media use and, 42, 48–50
 dispositional susceptibility, 43
 distractibility, media multitasking effects on, 318–319 distraction, social media as tool for, 70
- dIPFC. See dorsolateral prefrontal cortex
- DMHIs. See digital mental health interventions
- DMIs. See digital micro interventions
- dmPFC. See dorsomedial prefrontal cortex
- dopaminergic pathways, 111–115
- dorsal anterior cingulate cortex (dACC), 107–111
- dorsal attentional network, 107–111
- dorsolateral prefrontal cortex (dIPFC), 107–111
- dorsomedial prefrontal cortex (dmPFC), 107–111
- Down syndrome, 200
- downward social comparison, 26
- DQ Institute, 373
- drug use, 273
 posts related to, 274–277
 quantity of digital media use and, 273–274
- DSM-5. See Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders*
- DSMM. See differential susceptibility to media effects model
- dual systems framework, of brain development, 120–122
- eating disorders, 243–244. See also disordered eating social media content encouraging, 252–253
- echo chambers, on digital media, 375–376
- ecological momentary assessment (EMA)
 for measurement of digital media use, 18
 in study of self-injurious thoughts and behaviors, 341
- ecological momentary interventions, 399–400
- ecosystem, social media as, 196
- editability, social media platforms allowing, 21
- educational interventions. See school-based initiatives
- EEG. See electroencephalography
- ego development theory, 65–66 commitment formation and, 66–67 identity exploration in, 67
- egocentrism, 52–53
- Egypt, governmental use of digital media in, 179
- elaboration narrative partner functions in, 72–74
 on social media, 75

- electroencephalography (EEG), 104–105 brain reward circuitry studies using, 114–115
   control and attentional network studies
   using, 110–111
   early childhood development studies using, 118–119 social information processing studies using, 117
- electronic actions, against sexual/gender minority youth, 197
- EMA. See ecological momentary assessment
- eMoodie, 309–310
- emotional support, 89
- empathy, in internet-addicted individuals, 117
- ENLIGHT, 397
- environmental factors selective social media use and, 42–43
   social media as social context, 44–45, 47–52, 54
- ephemeral content, 139
- ESM. See experience sampling method
- ethics, self-injurious thoughts and behaviors and, 353–354
- ethnic minorities. See racial-ethnic minorities
- executive network, 107–111
- exosystems, 50–51
- experience sampling method (ESM), 18
- experiential learning, by LGBT+ youth, 196
- experimentation, as motivation for sexual engagement with digital media, 141
- exploration identity, 67–68, 172–175 racial-ethnic identity, 189–190
   sexual, 140–141
- external focus, in adolescent identity development, 70–72
- externalizing behaviors, 264
   aggression, bullying, and violence, 268–269 digital media as tool for reduction of, 283–285
   digital media use in, 265–283
   future research directions in, 285–286
   mechanisms of, 277–283
   problem behavior and delinquency, 265–267
- extroversion, in relationship between digital media usage and psychological well-being, 26–27
- Facebook
   adolescent use of, 10–11
   appearance-related feedback on, 248–249 brain reward circuitry in use of, 112–114 changes in use of, 15
   government bans of, 179 historical research on adolescent use of, 14–15
- identity exploration on, 172–175
   LGBT+ youth use of, 196 marginalized population affordances/hindrances on, 204 narrative elaboration on, 75
   sexual agency and, 146
   social information processing in use of, 115–117
   as tool for introspection, 70
- Facebook Stories, 14–21
- face-to-face communication, 45–48
- fame, social media role in adolescent aspirations for, 91–92
- family
   selective social media use and, 42–43
   social context of, 44
- family media agreements, 379–380
- Family Media Use Plan (FMUP), 232
- fatigue, social media, 70
- fear of missing out (FOMO)
   depression and anxiety association with, 226
   media effects in adolescents with, 43
   selective social media use and, 42
- FEF. See frontal eye fields
- filters, selective exposure to media with, 41–42
- Finsta, 48–49, 222, 254–255
- fitness, social media content devoted to, 252
- fitspiration, 252
- FMUP. See Family Media Use Plan
- focus, media multitasking effects on, 318–319
- followers, body image and, 248–251
- FOMO. See fear of missing out
- footsie, 175–176
- FP network. See fronto-parietal network
- Friendster, 14–15
- frontal eye fields (FEF), 107–111
- fronto-parietal (FP) network, 107–111
- functional MRI methods, 104–105
   brain reward circuitry studies using, 113–114
   control and attentional network studies
   using, 109–110
- functional near-infrared spectroscopy, brain development studies using, 124
- GAD. See generalized anxiety disorder
- game-based interventions, mental health, 396–398
- gaming addiction, 111–112
   definition of, 301
   neural correlates of, 109–112, 114–115, 119–120
- gangs, social media use by, 266–267
- gender
   depression and anxiety association with, 227–228 problematic social media use association
   with, 304

- gender identity, 140–141
- gender minorities. See sexual and gender minorities
- gender norms, conformity to, 174–175
- gender roles, traditional, 137, 148
- gender stereotypes, 148, 152
- generalized anxiety disorder (GAD), 217. See also anxiety
- geographic identity, 200
- goal-striving, identity development and, 71
- government, internet control by, 179
- grappling, narrative partner functions in, 72–74
- grooming, 143
- group chats, racial-ethnic based, 193
- group therapy, for problematic social media use, 307
- habits. See digital media habits
- habituation, to high arousal levels, 321
- harassment, of sexual/gender minority youth, 197–198
- Harm Reduction Therapy (HRT), 306–307
- hashtags, 41–42
- health information, social media delivery of, 284
- health risk behaviors, 264
  - digital media as tool for reduction of, 283–285
  - digital media use in, 265–283
  - future research directions in, 285–286
  - mechanisms of, 277–283
  - sexual risk taking, 270–273
  - substance misuse, 273–277
- Healthy Internet Use Model, 232–233
- heterosexuality, compulsory, 194–195
- high-income economies, 162, 177–178
- highlight reels, 375–376
- highly visual social media (HVSM)
  - body image and, 246, 248
  - depression and anxiety association with, 225–226
- homelessness
  - beneficial uses of social media in, 230–231
  - identity development and, 200–202
- HomeNet study, 12–13
- HRT. See Harm Reduction Therapy
- Human Relations Media, 373
- HVSM. See highly visual social media
- Hyperpersonal communication model, 46
- IA. See internet addiction
- identification, of self-injurious thoughts and behaviors and suicidality, 350–351
- identity
  - in externalizing and health-risk behaviors, 283
  - historical study of social media use for, 14–15
  - identity development, 63, 77–78
    - construction of life story in, 72
    - culturally and digitally mediated, 172–176
    - dialogue and narrative partner functions in, 72–74
    - in disadvantaged neighborhoods, 200
    - formation of self-evaluated commitments in, 66–67
    - future research directions in, 76–77
    - homelessness and, 200–202
    - identity exploration and introspection in, 67–68, 172–175
    - intellectual disability and, 200–202
    - marginalized, 188–189
    - model of, 64–65
    - objective aspect of, 64–65, 71–76
    - observation of, 76
    - of racial-ethnic minorities, 189–194, 202–204
    - of sexual and gender minorities, 194–199, 203–204
    - social media impacts on, 63–64, 68–71, 74–76
      - subjective aspect of, 64–71
  - identity exploration, 67–68
  - idols, social media interactions with, 50–51
  - IGD. See Internet Gaming Disorder
  - iKeepSafe, 378–379
  - image-based content
    - appearance preoccupation in, 70–71
    - body image and, 246, 248
    - depression and anxiety association with, 225–226
    - loneliness reduction via, 89–90
    - psychological well-being impacts of, 23–25
  - imaginary audience
    - body image and, 242–243
    - peer influence and, 88
  - impulse control, 107–111
  - InCTRL, 373, 377
  - Indigenous adolescents
    - protective mechanisms of social technologies for, 192–194
    - risks of digital media use by, 190–192
  - infinite scroll, 375–376
  - influence, peer, 87–89
  - information exchange, self-injurious thought and behavior reduction through, 348
  - information overload, 70
  - information seeking, as motivation for sexual engagement with digital media, 140
  - inhibitory control, 43
  - injunctive norms, 87–88
  - Instagram
    - adolescent idols on, 50–51
    - adolescent use of, 10–11
    - appearance preoccupation on, 70–71

- Instagram (cont.)
 body image and, 246, 254–255
 brain reward circuitry in use of, 113–114, 301–302
 fame through, 91–92
 Finsta accounts on, 48–49, 222, 254–255
 identity exploration on, 68
 information shared on, 48–49 self-injury content on, 342–343
- Instagram Stories, 14–21
- instant messaging. See also sexting
 historical research on adolescent use of, 13
- Instant Messaging Addiction, 300–309
- Integrated Threat Theory, 191–192
- intellectual disability, 200–202
- intention-setting activities, 379
- interactional factors, in social media effects on self-injurious thoughts and behaviors, 349
- interactive media, 10
- interactivity continuum, 23–25
- internal focus, in adolescent identity development, 70–72
- internet access to, 188–189, 201–202
 government control of, 179
 history of research on adolescent use of, 12–13
 information permanence on, 69–70
- internet addiction (IA), 111–112 assessment of, 302–303, 309 clinical implications of, 308–309 clinical trial studies of, 310
 definition of, 301–302
 future research directions in, 309–311
 neural correlates of, 109–111, 114–115, 117 normative use versus, 300–301 prevention of, 303–306
 research limitations in, 309–311 sample demographics and diversity in studies of, 311 screening for, 308–309
 terminology inconsistency in, 309
 treatment of, 306–307
- Internet Addiction Scale, 300–309
- internet gaming addiction, 111–112
 definition of, 301
 neural correlates of, 109–112, 114–115, 119–120
- Internet Gaming Disorder (IGD), 301, 309
- Internet Relay Chat rooms (IRCs), 13
- Internet Safety curriculum, 373
- interpersonal factors, in adolescent identity development, 64
- interpersonal needs, historical study of social media use for, 14–15
- intersectional identities, 203–204
- intersectionality theory, body image and, 255
- interventions. See also digital mental health interventions; school-based initiatives depression and anxiety resources, 232–233 for self-injurious thoughts and behaviors and suicidality, 351 for sleep improvement, 324–325, 327–328
- intimacy in computer-mediated communication, 45–48
 historical study of social media use for, 14–15
- intrapersonal factors, in adolescent identity development, 64
- intrapersonal needs, historical study of social media use for, 14–15
- introspection
 in identity development, 67
 social media as tool for, 70
- introversion, in relationship between digital media usage and psychological well-being, 26–27
- investment, 250 in appearance, 250
 in peer feedback, 250–251
- Iran, governmental control of internet in, 179
- IRCs. See Internet Relay Chat rooms
- isolation
 among LGBT+ youth, 197–198
 social media role in, 89–91
- Japan
 digitally-mediated self in, 173
 selfie use in, 175
- Latin America, digital media use in, 165–166
- Latinx adolescents, 190–192
 news media impacts on, 224
 protective mechanisms of social technologies for, 192–194
- LGBT+ youth, 188–189
 beneficial uses of social media for, 230–231
 identity development of, 194–199, 203–204
 intersectional identities of, 203–204
 resilience through digital media use by, 198–199
 risks of digital media use by, 197–198
- life cycle theory, 65–66 commitment formation and, 66–67
- life story construction of, 72
 dialogue and narrative partner functions in, 72–74
 future research directions in, 76–77
 identity development and, 64, 71
 social media impact on, 74–76

- likes
- body image and, 225, 246, 248–251
  - brain reward network activation by, 113–114, 301–302
  - deviancy training via, 280
  - fluid nature of technology and, 15
  - peer influence via, 88
  - peer interactions and, 86–87
  - popularity and social status management using, 91–92, 281–282
  - psychological principles of, 375–376
  - sexually oriented digital media use and, 143–144
- loneliness
- social media increase in, 90–91
  - social media reduction in, 89–91
- longitudinal studies, digital platform fluidity challenges for, 16
- lower- and middle-income economies, 162, 177–178
- lower-income households, identity development in, 200
- lowest common denominator model, 196
- mACC. See mid-anterior cingulate
- machine learning, for detection of self-injurious thoughts and behaviors and suicidality, 350–351
- macrosystems, 50–51
- magnetic resonance imaging (MRI), 104–105
- brain reward circuitry studies using, 112–114
  - control and attentional network studies using, 109–110
  - early childhood development studies using, 118–119
  - social information processing studies using, 116–117
- major depressive disorder (MDD), 217. See also depression
- maladjustment, social media use and, 90
- marginalized populations, 188–189
- beneficial uses of social media by, 230–231
  - challenges in study of, 202–205
  - differential access in, 202
  - digital mental health interventions for, 405
  - disadvantaged neighborhoods, 200
  - future research directions for, 202–205
  - hard to reach and hidden, 202–204
  - homelessness, 200–202
  - intersectional identities, 203–204
  - people with intellectual disabilities, 200–202
  - racial-ethnic minorities, 189–194, 202–204
  - sexual and gender minorities, 194–199, 203–204
  - social media site affordances/hindrances for, 204–205
- marijuana use, posts on, 274–275
- MARS. See Mobile App Rating Scale
- mass communication, 39–40
- mass media, 10
- as exosystem, 50–51
  - social media compared with, 54
- MDD. See major depressive disorder
- media affordances, 16–17. See also social media affordances
- media agreements, 379–380
- media diet, 378–379
- Media Education Lab, 373
- media effects, 40
- on attention, 317–318
  - individual susceptibilities to, 329
  - user shaping of, 48–50
- media effects theories, 40
- computer-mediated communication theories compared with, 45–48
  - conditionality paradigm, 43–45
  - future research avenues for, 54–55
  - selectivity paradigm, 40–41
  - social media impact on, 39–40
  - transactional affordance theory of social media uses, 47–54
  - transactionality paradigm, 41–43
- Media Lessons and Resources, 373
- media literacy education (MLE), 365–366, 375–376
- media multitasking, 330
- attention problems associated with, 317–322
  - definition of, 317
  - future research directions in, 323
  - neural correlates of, 109–110
  - positive effects of, 322–335
  - sleep problems associated with, 317, 327
- Media Practice Model, 283
- Media Use Plan, 232
- MediaSmarts, 377–379
- melatonin, screen light effects on, 326
- mental health. See also specific mental illnesses
- beneficial uses of social media for, 229
  - change in concept of, 1
  - conceptual considerations for digital media usage and, 19–27
  - developmental psychopathology perspectives of, 3–4
  - digital activities impact on, 23–25, 90–91, 367, 375–376
  - historical study of internet use relationship to, 12–13
  - historical study of social networking site and social media app use relationship to, 14–15
  - history effects of, 349
  - identity development impact on, 63

- mental health. (cont.)
 mechanisms underlying digital media usage relationship to, 26 user variables underlying digital media usage relationship to, 26–27
- mental health interventions, 389, 406 barriers to existing mental health services and, 389–390
 benefits of digital, 390–391 challenges and future directions to, 400–406
 modes of delivery of, 391–400
- mental health services, barriers to adolescent use of, 389–390
- mesosystem, social media as, 50–51
- message sending, mood effects of, 48–50
- metacognition, digital, 377–380
- meta-modernity, 170
- metrics
 body image and, 225, 246, 248–251
 psychological principles of, 375–376
- M-Health Index and Navigation Database (MIND), 397
- microsystem, social media as, 50–51
- mid-anterior cingulate (mACC), 107–111
- Middle East
 adolescent media use studies in, 177–178
 digital media use in, 166
- MIND. See M-Health Index and Navigation Database
- Mirroring Framework, 44
- misinformation, on digital media, 375–376
- mixed methods design, for measurement of digital media use, 18
- MLE. See media literacy education
- Mobile App Rating Scale (MARS), 397
- mobile phones. See smartphones
- mobility narrative, 168–169, 171–172 alternatives to, 170–171
- moderate-discrepancy hypothesis, selective social media use and, 42
- moderation, of self-injury content, 342–343
- mood, social media effects on, 48–50
- morbidity, externalizing and health risk behaviors causing, 264
- mortality, externalizing and health risk behaviors causing, 264
- MRI. See magnetic resonance imaging
- MUDs. See Multi-User Dungeons
- multicultural theory, of depression and anxiety, 218, 221–222, 227–230
- multiracial-ethnic identities, 202–203
- multitasking. See media multitasking
- Multi-User Dungeons (MUDs), 13
- MySpace
 changes in use of, 15
 historical research on adolescent use of, 14–15
- narcissism, 172
 selfie as, 175–176
- narrative identity
 construction of, 72
 dialogue and narrative partner functions in, 72–74
 future research directions in, 76–77
 identity development and, 64, 71
 social media impact on, 74–76
- narrative partners, in adolescent identity development, 72–74
- narrative reinforcement, of self-injurious thoughts and behaviors, 343
- Native American adolescents protective mechanisms of social
 technologies for, 192–194
 risks of digital media use by, 190–192
- natural language processing, for detection of self-injurious thoughts and behaviors and suicidality, 350–351
- near-infrared spectroscopy, brain development studies using, 124
- negative sexuality, 136
- negative susceptibles, 55
- neighborhoods, disadvantaged, 200
- NetSmartz, 373
- neuroticism, in relationship between digital media usage and psychological well-being, 26–27
- new media, 10
- News Literacy Project, 373
- news media, depression and anxiety association with, 224
- no relationship hypothesis, of depression and social media use, 221–222
- non-suicidal self-injury (NSSI), 338–339. See also self-injurious thoughts and behaviors
- non-susceptibles, 55
- normalization effect, on self-injurious thoughts and behaviors, 343
- normative social media use, 220, 300–301
- norms. See also social norms in externalizing and health-risk behaviors, 280–281
 gender, 174–175
 media effects resonating with, 44
 peer influence on, 87–88
 problematic social media use association
 with, 304–305
 sexist, 142
 sexual risk taking and, 270–271 social media, 22, 44–45, 47–52, 68–69
- North Korea, governmental control of internet in, 179
- NSSI. See non-suicidal self-injury

- objectification, sexual, 141–148
- objectification theory, 244–245
- objective aspect of identity development, 64–65, 71
- construction of life story, 72
- dialogue and narrative partner functions in, 72–74
- social media impact on, 74–76
- OFC. See orbitofrontal cortex
- offline communication, computer-mediated
- communication compared with, 45–48
- offline contexts, online contexts versus, 44–45, 86–87
- online discrimination
- against racial-ethnic minority youth, 190–192
- against sexual/gender minority youth, 197–198
- online disinhibition, 43
- online mental health interventions, 393–394
- online pornography. See pornography
- online sexual risk behavior, developmental susceptibility to, 44
- online support, self-injurious thought and behavior reduction through, 346–347
- online support groups, 285
- open to new experiences, in relationship between digital media usage and psychological well-being, 26–27
- orbitofrontal cortex (OFC), 108, 111–115
- parallel activities, 23–25
- parent training, for treatment of problematic social media use, 307
- parents
- school-based initiatives to help, 365–366
- selective social media use and, 42–43
- partner pressure, 142
- passive sensing technology, 309–310, 399–400
- passive use, 23–25, 90–91, 375–376
- past selves, inability to escape, 69–70
- Pathological Video Game Use, 300–309
- Pathway Model of Problematic Mobile Phone Use, 301
- PCC. See posterior cingulate cortex
- peer approval
- body image and, 248–249
- investment in, 250–251
- peer groups, selective social media use and, 42–43
- peer influence
- body image and, 242–243
- social media intensification of, 87–89
- unique online, 282
- peer interactions
- digital media use in, 9
- social media effects on, 86–87
- peer pressure, as motivation for sexual engagement with digital media, 142
- peer relationships
- digital communication transformation of
- peer constructs, 87–92
- future research directions in, 94–95
- importance of, 85
- observation of, 92–93
- opportunities and challenges for study of, 92–94
- peer influence in, 87–89
- popularity and social status in, 91–92, 281–282
- in sexuality development, 136–137
- social connectedness in, 89–91
- social media impacts on, 85, 87–92, 96
- social media redefinition of, 94–95
- theoretical considerations in study of, 86–87
- peer selection, in externalizing and health-risk behaviors, 278–279
- peer socialization, in externalizing and health-risk behaviors, 279–282
- peer support, self-injurious thought and behavior reduction through, 346–347
- people of color. See youth of color
- persistence, of social media platforms, 21
- personality, in relationship between digital media usage and psychological well-being, 26–27
- person-society coherence, 72
- person-specific effects, 54–55
- phenomenological and ecological framework (PVEST), 192–193
- photo editing
- body image and, 247–248
- investment in, 250
- photo-based platforms. See also image-based content
- appearance preoccupation on, 70–71
- body image and, 246, 248
- physical appearance
- adolescent concerns with, 242–244
- investment in, 250
- social media emphasis on, 70–71
- social media feedback on, 225, 243, 246, 248–251
- physical violence. See violence
- PMUM. See Problematic Media Use Measure
- popularity, social media impact on, 91–92, 281–282
- pornography, 137–138
- gender stereotypes in, 148
- information seeking in use of, 140
- sexual agency and, 146
- sexual behaviors and, 150–151
- sexual certainty and, 146–147
- sexual objectification and, 141–148

- pornography (cont.)
   sexual risk taking link to, 270–271 sexual satisfaction and, 147 Sexual Script Theory and, 144 sexually permissive attitudes and, 147–148 Social Cognitive Theory and, 143–144 positive sexuality, 136, 151–152 positive susceptibles, 55 positivity bias, 22, 45 posterior cingulate cortex (PCC), 108, 115–117 posterior parietal cortex (PPC), 107–111 posts alcohol and drug-related, 274–277
   length restrictions on, 75 loneliness reduction through, 90–91 temporary accessibility of, 139 poverty, identity development in, 200 PPC. See posterior parietal cortex precuneus (PREC), 108, 115–117 prefrontal cortex in brain control networks, 107–111 in brain reward circuitry, 108, 111–115 in social information processing, 108, 115–117 prevention problematic social media use, 305–306
   suicide, 351–352, 396, 405–406 prevention messaging, 284–285 PRIUSS. See Problematic and Risky Internet Use Screening Scale privacy of digital mental health interventions, 402–403
   self-injurious thoughts and behaviors and, 353–354
   social media impact on, 69–70
 private messaging. See also instant messaging; text messaging alcohol and drug-related, 275–276 pro-ana content, 225, 252–253 problem behavior, 265–266. See also specific behaviors Problematic and Risky Internet Use Screening Scale (PRIUSS), 308–309 Problematic Media Assessment and Treatment Clinic, 300–301, 309 Problematic Media Use Measure (PMUM), 308 problematic social media use, 300
   assessment of, 302–303, 309
   attention problems associated with, 319–320
   clinical implications of, 308–309
   clinical trial studies of, 310
   definition of, 301–302
   depression and anxiety association with, 220, 304
   digital media design features promoting, 367, 375–376
   future research directions in, 309–311
   gender and age association with, 304 normative social media use versus, 220, 300–301
   prevention of, 303–306
   rates of, 303
   research limitations in, 309–311
   reward processing in, 301–302
   sample demographics and diversity in studies of, 311
   screening for, 308–309
   terminology inconsistency in, 309
   treatment of, 306–307
 pro-mia content, 252–253
 PsyberGuide, 397
 psycho-education programs, for problematic social media use, 305–306 psychological well-being. See mental health psychosocial moratorium, in identity development, 67 publicness, body image and, 246 PVEST. See phenomenological and ecological framework quantifiability, of social networking sites, 91–92, 96, 246 queer cultural archipelagos, 195 racial inequalities, digital algorithms perpetuating, 179 racial-ethnic minorities, 188–189

   beneficial uses of social media for, 230–231
   identity development of, 189–194, 202–204
   intersectional identities of, 203–204 multicultural theory of depression and anxiety in, 218
   news media impacts on, 224
   resilience through digital media use by, 192–194
   risks of digital media use by, 190–192 rape myths, 141–148 reading skills, 118–119 recipient effects, 54 reciprocal activities, 23–25 Reddit
   identity exploration on, 68
   internal attributes focus and, 70–71 narrative elaboration on, 75 reflection about personal digital media use, 377–378, 380–383 social media as tool for, 70 relational victimization, 197 relationships. See peer relationships; romantic relationships

- research. See digital media research
- resilience
- racial-ethnic minority youth use of digital media for, 192–194
  - sexual and gender minority youth use of digital media for, 198–199
- resonance, of social norms and media effects, 44
- resource access, by LGBT+ youth, 199
- resource exchange, self-injurious thought and behavior reduction through, 348
- reward processing
- brain networks involved in, 108, 111–115
  - digital media use and, 105–106, 108, 111–115, 119–124, 375–376
  - in problematic social media use, 301–302
- reward seeking, peer influence and, 88
- Rinsta, 48–49
- risk-taking behaviors, 264
- aggression, bullying, and violence, 268–269
  - digital media as tool for reduction of, 283–285
  - digital media use in, 265–283
  - future research directions in, 285–286
  - mechanisms of, 277–283
  - peer influence and, 88
  - problem behavior and delinquency, 265–267
  - sexual risk taking, 270–273
  - substance misuse, 273–277
- risky sexual behaviors, 150
- role commitments, 66–67
- romantic competition, 149
- romantic relationships, 270
- sexually oriented digital media outcomes in, 149
  - sexually oriented digital media use in, 141
- rule-breaking, 265
- safe environments, for research on self-injurious thoughts and behaviors, 352–353
- safe spaces, for LGBT+ youth, 198–199
- saliency network, 107–111
- sample, demographics and diversity of, 311
- satisfaction, sexual, 147
- scalability
- of digital mental health interventions, 404
  - as social media affordance, 52–53
- scalable sociality, 170–171
- school-based initiatives
- behavioral change aim of, 376–378, 380–383
  - critical awareness aim of, 375–376, 380–383
  - curricula for, 368–374
  - on digital citizenship, 365–374, 380–384
  - equity concerns for, 382–383
  - goals of, 365–366, 374–375, 380–383
  - on healthy digital media use, 365–367, 374–376, 383–384
  - lessons used in, 374–376
  - problems, parents, precedent, and policies as drivers of, 365–366
  - psycho-education programs for problematic social media use, 305–306
  - self-reflection aim of, 377–378, 380–383
- schools
- digital media use policies of, 365–366, 383
  - selective social media use and, 42–43
- screen light, 326
- screen media, 10
- screen time
- average daily adolescent, 10–11
  - measurement of, 17, 219–220, 223, 309–310
  - re-imagination of, 23, 202
- Screenshots Curriculum, 373
- second-level digital divide, 188–189
- security, of digital mental health interventions, 402–403
- selection
- peer, 278–279
  - social media algorithm effects on, 93–94
- selective exposure, 40–43, 48–50
- selective exposure theory, 40–42
- developmental factors, 42
  - dispositional factors, 42
  - social context factors, 42–43
- selectivity paradigm of media effects theories, 40–41
- self, social media as distraction from, 70
- self-as-object, 64–65. See also objective aspect of identity development
- self-as-subject, 64–65. See also subjective aspect of identity development
- Self-Aware stage, of ego development theory, 66–67
- self-branding, 92
- self-concept, sexual, 145–146
- self-defining memories, 71, 73, 77
- self-development
- culturally and digitally mediated, 172–176
  - sexual, 145–147
- self-effects, 45
- asynchronicity and, 52
  - cue manageability and, 52–53
  - recipient effects compared with, 54
  - scalability as, 52–53
  - sexual, 141–144
- self-effects theory, 47–48. See also transactional affordance theory of social media uses
- self-evaluated commitments, 66–67
- self-exploration, 67

- self-expression
  - mood effects of, 48–50
  - school-based initiatives on, 368
  - self-injurious thought and behavior
    - reduction through, 347
- selfies
  - body image and, 247, 250–251
  - investment in, 250
  - narcissistic nature of, 175–176
  - sexy, 137–138, 145
- self-injurious thoughts and behaviors (SITB), 338–339, 354
  - adolescence and, 339
  - challenges in research on, 352–354
  - contagion of, 343–344
  - cyberbullying and, 345
  - detection of, 350–351
  - exposure to social media content on, 342–343
  - heavy social media use and, 345
  - intervention and prevention opportunities for, 350–352
  - interventions for, 351
  - among LGBT+ youth, 198
  - methodological innovation in study of, 353
  - methods used in study of, 340–341
  - moderators and mediators of social media effects on, 348–350
  - normalization and narrative reinforcement of, 343
  - prevention of, 351–352, 396, 405–406
  - privacy and ethical issues of, 353–354
  - safe environments for minimization of, 352–353
  - social media benefits for reduction of, 346–348
  - social media challenges in, 344
  - social media risks for, 341–345
  - social media role in, 340–341
  - stigma reduction for, 352
- self-knowledge, 347
- self-objectification, 244–245
  - photo editing association with, 247–248
  - selfies association with, 247
- self-perception, 141–144
- self-perception theory, 48–50
- self-presentation
  - in active versus passive digital media use, 23–25
  - asynchronicity affordance in, 52
  - body image and, 247–248
  - controllability of, 53–54
  - cue manageability affordance in, 52–53
  - cultural effects on, 172–175
  - externalizing and health-risk behaviors in, 283
  - positivity bias in, 45
  - scalability affordance in, 52–53
  - sexual, 137–138, 140–148
  - social media use in, 14–15
  - social status and popularity via, 92
- self-reflection, 377–378, 380–383
- self-regulatory control
  - brain networks involved in, 107–111
  - digital media use and, 105–111, 122–124
- self-report, limitations of, 309–310, 329–330
- self-story
  - construction of, 72
  - dialogue and narrative partner functions in, 72–74
  - future research directions in, 76–77
  - identity development and, 64, 71
  - social media impact on, 74–76
- sensation seeking, 43
- sensitivity screens, 342–343
- sexting, 137–138
  - partner pressure in, 142
  - in relationship initiation and maintenance, 141
  - school-based initiatives on, 368
  - sexual attraction and, 149
  - sexual behaviors and, 150–151
  - sexual exploration through, 141
  - sexual objectification and, 141–148
  - sexual risk taking link to, 271–273
  - sexual satisfaction through, 147
  - sexual self-concept development through, 145–146
- sexual agency, 146
- sexual and gender minorities, 188–189
  - beneficial uses of social media for, 230–231
  - identity development of, 194–199, 203–204
  - intersectional identities of, 203–204
  - resilience through digital media use by, 198–199
  - risks of digital media use by, 197–198
- sexual attraction, 149
- sexual behaviors, adolescent engagement in, 150–151
- sexual certainty, 146–147
- sexual citizenship, 199
- sexual coercion, 142–143
- sexual exploration, 140–141
- sexual health education, digital media use in, 137–138
- sexual identity, 135
  - development of marginalized, 194–199, 203–204
  - sexually oriented digital media use in
    - construction of, 140–141
- sexual objectification, 141–148
- sexual risk taking, 270
  - developmental susceptibility to online, 44
  - exposure to online, 270–271

- quantity of digital media use, 270
- sexting, cybersex and offline sexual risk, 271–273
- sexual satisfaction, 147
- Sexual Script Theory, 144
- sexual self-concept, 145–146
- sexual self-development outcomes, of sexually oriented digital media use, 145–147
- sexual socialization, 136–137
- sexuality
- digital media implications for, 145–151
  - digital media uses within context of, 139–143
- sexuality development
- adolescent, 135–137
  - digital media impact on, 135–138
  - sexual identity establishment, 135
  - sexually aggressive behavior, 150–151
  - sexually oriented digital media use, 135, 137–138
  - affordances of, 138–139
  - attitudinal outcomes of, 147–149
  - behavioral outcomes of, 150–151
  - future research directions in, 151–153
  - motivations for, 139–143
  - relationship quality indicators of, 149
  - sexual self-development outcomes of, 145–147
  - theoretical frameworks for effects of, 143–145
- sexually permissive attitudes, 147–148
- shared vulnerabilities, in externalizing and health-risk behaviors, 277–278
- SIDE. See Social Identity Model of Deindividuation Effects
- single session interventions (SSIs)
- online or web-based, 394
  - for self-injurious thoughts and behaviors and suicidality, 351
- SITB. See self-injurious thoughts and behaviors
- sleep
- in adolescent development, 324–330
  - depression and anxiety association with, 227
  - digital media effects on, 324–330
  - future research directions for digital media effects on, 327–330
  - individual susceptibilities to problems with, 329
  - media multitasking impact on, 317, 327
- sleep displacement, 325–326
- sleep trackers, 329–330
- smartphones
- access to, 9, 201–202
  - addiction to, 109–115, 119–120, 302–303
  - attention-holding design features of, 367, 375–376
  - circadian rhythm disruption by, 326
  - cultural differences in terminology used for, 173
  - data collection technologies using, 92–93, 309–310
  - mental health intervention delivery by, 395–397
  - passive sensing technology using, 309–310, 399–400
  - school policies on, 365–366, 383
  - sleep displacement by, 325–326
- SMD Scale. See Social Media Disorder Scale
- Snapchat
- adolescent use of, 10–11
  - affordances of, 21
  - body image and, 246, 254–255
  - sexting via, 137–138
  - visual conversations on, 175
- Snapchat Stories, 14–21
- social activism, LGBT+, 199
- social cognition, 88
- Social Cognitive Theory, 143–144
- social comparison
- body image and, 248
  - as mechanism underlying digital media usage relationship to mental health, 26
  - in social media effects on self-injurious thoughts and behaviors, 349–350
- social comparison theory, 245
- social connectedness, 89–91
- social context, social media as, 44–45, 47–52, 54
- social context factors, selective social media use and, 42–43
- social credit system, of China, 179
- Social Identity Model of Deindividuation Effects (SIDE), 46
- social information processing
- brain networks involved in, 108, 115–117
  - digital media use and, 105–106, 108, 115–117, 119–124
- Social Information Processing Theory, 46
- social interactions
- adolescent engagement in, 1–3
  - digital media use in, 9
- social isolation
- among LGBT+ youth, 197–198
  - social media role in, 89–91
- social learning, by LGBT+ youth, 196
- social media
- adolescent use of, 10–11
  - anxiety association with, 219–223
  - appearance preoccupation in, 70–71
  - appearance-related feedback in, 225, 243, 246, 248–251
  - attention effects of, 319–322
  - attention on, 75–76

- social media (cont.)
- attention-holding design features of, 367, 375–376
  - beneficial uses of, 229–231
  - body image effects of, 86–87, 225, 244–251
  - body positivity content on, 253–254
  - censorship on, 74–75
  - changes in use of, 15–17
  - community structures in, 168–172
  - contextual characteristics of, 21–22
  - definition of, 1–3, 10, 39–40
  - delinquent acts portrayed on, 267
  - depression association with, 90, 219–223
  - eating disorder encouragement in, 252–253
    - as ecosystem, 196
  - fame through, 91–92
  - features versus platforms of, 94
  - gang use of, 266–267
  - governmental control and use of, 179
  - health information delivery through, 284
  - history of study of adolescent use of, 11–15
  - identity development effects of, 63–64, 68–71, 74–76
    - as identity playground, 172–175
  - information permanence on, 69–70
  - mass media compared with, 54
  - mental health intervention delivery by, 399
  - as micro- or mesosystem, 50–51
  - narrative elaboration on, 75
  - normative versus problematic use of, 220, 300–301
  - norms of, 22, 44–45, 47–52, 68–69
  - offline contexts versus, 44–45, 86–87
  - peer influence intensification on, 87–89
  - peer relationship impacts of, 85, 87–92, 96
  - peer relationship redefinition by, 94–95
  - person-specific effects of, 54–55
  - popularity and social status effects of, 91–92, 281–282
  - prevention messaging delivery through, 284–285
  - quality of use of, 219–220
  - school-based initiatives on digital citizenship and, 365–374, 380–384
  - school-based initiatives on healthy use of, 365–367, 374–376, 383–384
  - selective exposure to, 40–43, 48–50
  - self-injurious behaviors and, 340–350
  - similarities between different platforms of, 14–21
  - social connectedness and isolation via, 89–91
    - as social context, 44–45, 47–52, 54
    - subjective experience of, 51–52
    - suicide and, 340–350
    - as tool for introspection, 70
    - validation on, 75–76
    - weight loss and fitness content on, 252
- social media addiction, 300
- assessment of, 302–303, 309
  - attention problems associated with, 319–320
  - clinical implications of, 308–309
  - clinical trial studies of, 310
  - definition of, 301–302
  - depression and anxiety association with, 220, 304
  - digital media design features promoting, 367, 375–376
  - future research directions in, 309–311
  - gender and age association with, 304
  - normative social media use versus, 220, 300–301
  - prevention of, 303–306
  - rates of, 303
  - research limitations in, 309–311
  - sample demographics and diversity in studies of, 311
  - screening for, 308–309
  - terminology inconsistency in, 309
  - treatment of, 306–307
- social media affordances, 14–21, 44–45, 47–52
- adolescent identity development and, 76–77
  - asynchronicity as, 52
  - attention problems and, 323
  - for communication, 16–17, 21
  - cue manageability as, 52–53
  - cultural beliefs and, 162–163
  - marginalized population digital media use and, 204–205
  - scalability as, 52–53
  - sexually oriented use and, 138–139
- social media apps. See applications
- social media challenges, in self-injurious thoughts and behaviors, 344
- Social Media Disorder (SMD) Scale, 303, 309
- social media effects theories, 40
- computer-mediated communication theories compared with, 45–48
  - conditionality paradigm, 43–45
  - future research avenues for, 54–55
  - selectivity paradigm, 40–41
  - social media impact on, 39–40
  - transactional affordance theory of social media uses, 47–54
  - transactionality paradigm, 41–43
- social media fatigue, 70
- social modeling, 343–344
- social network use disorder, 111–112
- social networking sites. See also specific sites
- history of research on adolescent use of, 14–15
  - neural correlates of use of, 112–114
  - quantifiability of, 91–92, 96, 246

- sexual agency and, 146
 social information processing in use of, 108, 115–117
- social norms
 in externalizing and health-risk behaviors, 280–281
 media effects resonating with, 44 problematic social media use association with, 304–305
 social media impact on, 68–69
- social status
 in externalizing and health-risk behaviors, 281–282 physical appearance tie to, 242–243
 social media impact on, 91–92, 281–282
- social support, self-injurious thought and behavior reduction through, 346–347
- social ties, in digital societies, 168–172
- social-context susceptibility, 44
- socialization
 peer, 279–282
 sexual, 136–137
 social media algorithm effects on, 93–94
- societies, digital, 168–172
- source anonymity, 138–139
- South Korea
 digitally-mediated self in, 173–174
 selfie use in, 175
- SPL. See superior parietal lobule
- SSIs. See single session interventions
- status seeking, digital, 22
- stereotypes
 gender, 148, 152
 racial-ethnic, 190–192
- stigma digital mental health interventions as solution to, 390–391 of self-injurious thoughts and behaviors and suicidality, 352
- stimulated recall method, 77
- storytelling
 dialogue and narrative partner functions in, 72–74
 in identity development, 71
 social media impact on, 74–76
- streaks, psychological principles of, 375–376
- structural MRI methods, 104–105
 control and attentional network studies using, 109–110
 early childhood development studies using, 118–119
- STS. See superior temporal sulcus
- subjective aspect of identity development, 64–66 formation of self-evaluated commitments, 66–67 identity exploration and introspection, 67–68
 social media impact on, 68–71
- subjective experience body image and disordered eating link to, 250–251 of social media users, 51–52
- substance use, 273 alcohol and drug-related posting and, 274–276 exposure to alcohol and drug-related posts and, 276–277
 peer influence on, 87–88
 quantity of digital media use and, 273–274
- suicide, 338–339, 354
 adolescence and, 339
 challenges in research on, 352–354
 contagion of, 343–344
 cyberbullying and, 345
 detection of, 350–351
 exposure to social media content on, 342–343
 heavy social media use and, 345 intervention and prevention opportunities for, 350–352
 interventions for, 351
 among LGBT+ youth, 197–198
 methodological innovation in study of, 353
 methods used in study of, 340–341
 moderators and mediators of social media effects on, 348–350
 normalization and narrative reinforcement of, 343
 prevention of, 351–352, 396, 405–406
 privacy and ethical issues of, 353–354
 safe environments for minimization of, 352–353
 social media benefits for reduction of, 346–348
 social media challenges in, 344
 social media risks for, 341–345
 social media use and, 90, 340–341
 stigma reduction for, 352
- Super Peer Theory, 280–281
- superior parietal lobule (SPL), 107–111
- superior temporal sulcus (STS), 108, 115–117
- support groups, online, 285
- surveillance, governmental, 179
- surveillance capitalism, 179
- TalkLife, 342–343
- Talks and Guidelines for Families & Educators, 373
- task switching skills, 322
- teachers, digital media use by, 365–366
- technology pledges, 379–380

- telehealth services, mental health intervention delivery by, 393
- temporal coherence, in adolescent life story, 72
- temporoparietal junction (TPJ), 108, 115–117
- text messaging. See also sexting
- alcohol and drug-related, 275–276
  - antisocial, 267
  - mental health intervention delivery by, 395
  - prevention messaging delivery through, 284–285
- text-based communication, face-to-face communication compared with, 45–48
- text-based content, psychological well-being impacts of, 23–25
- text-based platforms, internal attributes focus and, 70–71
- thinspiration, 225, 252
- “13 Reasons Why,” 343–344
- TikTok
- adolescent use of, 10–11
  - artificial intelligence recommendation engine of, 93–94
  - body image and, 246, 254–255
  - LGBT+ youth use of, 204
- time trackers, 377–378
- tobacco use, posts related to, 275
- topic modeling, 350–351
- TPJ. See temporoparietal junction
- traditional learning, by LGBT+ youth, 196
- trained attention hypothesis, 322
- trait aggressiveness, media effects in adolescents with, 43
- transactional affordance theory of social media uses, 47–48
- importance of user subjective experience, 51–52
  - micro- and meso-level context of social media, 50–51
  - user shaping of social media context and effects, 48–50
- transactional theories of development, 47–48
- transactionality paradigm of media effects theories, 41–42
- developmental factors, 42
  - dispositional factors, 42
  - social context factors, 42–43
- transformation framework
- body image effects of social media in, 246
  - of social media versus offline contexts, 44–45, 86–87
- transgender youth, 203. See also sexual and gender minorities
- beneficial uses of social media for, 230–231
- trigger warnings, 342–343
- tripartite influence model, 245–246
- Tumblr
- identity exploration on, 172–175
  - internal attributes focus and, 70–71
  - LGBT+ youth use of, 196, 198, 204
  - narrative elaboration on, 75
- Turkey, digitally-mediated self in, 173–174
- Twitter
- affordances of, 21
  - aggression on, 268
  - Black culture on, 193
  - censorship on, 74–75
  - narrative elaboration on, 75
- Twitter-feuds, 266–267
- understudied populations. See marginalized populations
- United States
- digitally-mediated self in, 173–174
  - selfie use in, 175
- upward social comparison, 26
- usage. See also problematic social media use
- conceptualization and operationalization of, 22–25
  - measurement of, 17–18, 219–220, 223, 309–310
  - quality of, 219–220
- user variables, in relationship between digital media usage and psychological well-being, 26–27
- users
- social media context and effects shaping by, 48–50
  - subjective experience of, 51–52
- uses-and-gratifications theory, 40–41
- validation
- narrative partner provision of, 72–74
  - on social media, 75–76
- validity testing, in depression and anxiety, 218, 222
- values
- future research directions in, 76–77
  - identity development and, 64–66
  - social media impact on, 68–71
- variable rewards, digital media use of, 375–376
- ventral striatum (VS), 108–115
- ventromedial prefrontal cortex (vmPFC), 108, 111–117
- verbal victimization, 197
- Video Game Addiction Scale, 309
- video games
- attention effects of, 317–318, 322–323
  - mental health intervention delivery by, 396–398
  - positive effects of playing, 322–323
  - violent content in, 269

- videoconferencing, mental health intervention delivery by, 393
- violence, 268–269
  developmental susceptibility to, 44 dispositional susceptibility to, 43
  exposure to online, 269
  offline and online overlap of, 268–269
  quantity of digital media use and, 268 social-context susceptibility to, 44
- virtual reality, mental health intervention delivery by, 398–399
- visibility, social media platforms allowing, 21
- visualness, body image and, 246
- vmPFC. See ventromedial prefrontal cortex
- VS. See ventral striatum
- Walther's Social Information Processing Theory, 46
- wearables, passive sensing technology using, 309–310, 399–400
- web-based mental health interventions, 393–394
- WeChat, 175
- weight loss, social media content devoted to, 252
- WEIRD (Western, Educated, Individualistic, Rich, Democratic) societies, research focus on, 162–163, 168, 175, 188–189
- WeRNative, 194
- White Ribbon Week, 373–374, 377
- Year in Review, Facebook, 70
- youth of color beneficial uses of social media for, 230–231
  intersectional identities of, 203–204
  multicultural theory of depression and anxiety in, 218
  news media impacts on, 224 online discrimination against, 190–192 protective mechanisms of social
    technologies for, 192–194
- youth-centered digital mental health interventions, 403–404
- YouTube
  adolescent idols on, 50–51
  adolescent use of, 10–11
  censorship on, 74–75
  LGBT+ youth use of, 204

